Scranton Team Puts Hope in Platform Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. William W. Scranton's backers appeared today to be laying the groundwork for a GOP convention platform fight to test the solidarity of Sen. Barry Goldwater's presidential delegate strength.

Although no final decision is reported to have been made on such a maneuver, Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., already has canvassed platform views of a group of liberal Republican House members of the convention committee.

And Henry Cabot Lodge has tossed off some hints that a platform fight might provide the basis for the kind of test on which Scranton's backers may have to rely in their efforts to shake loose some of the convention votes now publicly committed to Goldwater for the nomination.

If any such battle is carried

GOP Labeled 'In Danger'

Scranton Points To 'Lifeless Spirit'

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — The Republican party is in grave danger of being taken over by men of "lifeless spirit," Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton told the Oregon GOP here today.

In remarks prepared for the Oregon Republican convention, Scranton, seeking the GOP presidential nomination, contended the party needs a "spirit of exuberant forward-looking Republicanism."

"But instead," he declared, "we are at this very moment in grave danger of turning our party over to men who think they can perceive the future in a rear-view mirror—men who would replace the dead hand of Democratic over-centralization with the equally lifeless spirit of don't-knowism."

Scranton told a newsman he is seeking "movable delegates" to help him in his presidential bid. Number one objective is to head off a first-ballot nomination of Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater at the San Francisco convention—only 11 days away.

The governor said Wednesday of a report that former President Dwight D. Eisenhower would nominate him at the convention, "not that I know of."

Direct backing by Eisenhower generally is considered to be the lever Scranton would need to move the movable delegates he has referred to.

Sources close to Scranton said Wednesday that the governor is within 80 delegates of preventing a first-ballot nomination of Goldwater.

The Scranton sources said they are seeking to swing the 80 delegates they need from among a group of 344 delegates in 23 states. Most of the delegates are in Colorado, Florida, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Missouri, North Carolina, New Jersey, North Dakota, South Dakota, Tennessee, Virginia, and Washington.

Augustine Chiefs OK Rights Rules

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP) — The city's top businessmen say they will abide by the civil rights bill if it is signed into law.

They said Wednesday they did not like the public accommodations section, which would force them to serve Negroes, but wanted to restore racial harmony to the city.

"We're not capitulating to anybody," said James Brock, acting as spokesman for the businessmen. "We had no choice. We want to do everything we can to get our community back to normal, with harmonious relations between races."

to the convention floor, Michigan Gov. George Romney is regarded as certain to align himself with Scranton's supporters. Romney, whose state casts 48 votes, has said he will not release those pledged to him on the first ballot.

Most Republican leaders think that only a statement on civil rights that went far beyond approval of the bill Congress is about to pass and pledges to enforce it could stir up a major convention controversy.

Rep. Melvin R. Laird, R-Wis., who heads the platform committee, has said that its provisions should be fought out within his group. But dissidents could bring a minority report to the floor if they chose.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, who will place Goldwater's name in nomination, predicted in an interview that if such a minority report materializes it will get short shift in the convention.

He said he doesn't believe anything the Scranton forces can do will keep Goldwater from getting the nomination. "This thing has gone too far," he said. "Barry Goldwater has won his spurs in the party. He was the one who went out in fair weather and foul to help rebuild it and the party won't forget that."

Lodge, however, declared that he doesn't "doubt for a second that a whole lot of things could be put together" to prevent Goldwater from betting the nomination.

The resigned ambassador to South Viet Nam told a National Press Club luncheon he does not believe the delegate counts, showing the Arizona senator has more than enough votes for the nomination, will hold up under the impact of convention maneuvering.

"Delegates are not like so many pencils in a box," Lodge said. "Any man who says that delegates are bought and paid for and 'I own them' is only deluding himself."

In response to questions, after he had discussed the situation in South Viet Nam at length in a formal speech, Lodge voiced the opinion that Scranton has "tremendously good prospects" of wresting the nomination away from Goldwater, and has "an excellent chance to win it."

Asked if a declaration by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower for Scranton might influence the result at the San Francisco convention, Lodge said any such move by the former president would be a "helpful thing at any time."

Khrushchev, Norse Argue About Fertilizer Knowhow

PORSGRUNN, Norway (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev told his unwilling hosts at the giant electrochemical concern Norsk Hydro today that they could not teach him anything about fertilizers. The firm's general manager replied that they could.

Khrushchev was met by the general manager, Rolf Oestbye, before he started a one-hour tour of the Eidanger fertilizer plant, part of the Norsk Hydro complex.

He asked Oestbye which type of fertilizer was better, liquid or solid. Oestbye said that was a difficult question to answer. Khrushchev remarked: "This seems to be a problem which you have not solved."

Norsk Hydro, the largest electrochemical enterprise in Scandinavia, was reportedly unwilling to have Khrushchev as a guest and only gave in after pressure had been exerted by the Norwegian government. The Eidanger plant produces nitrogen fertilizer and 30 other chemical products. It has 6,000 employees.

Oestbye was quoted as saying: "Let Khrushchev take his soapbox somewhere else."

Khrushchev arrived here by special train from Oslo. He was accompanied by Premier Einar Gerhardsen, Foreign Minister Halvard Lange and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko.

8 Ohio Cities OK'd For Training Setup

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The federal government has approved eight Ohio cities for manpower training courses costing more than $770,000.

The Bureau of Unemployment Compensation announced Wednesday that 535 trainees will be accepted for courses at Alliance, Ashtabula, Cleveland, Lorain, Mansfield, Marion, Portsmouth and Warren. The course will be given this summer, fall and next winter at high schools in the eight cities. The course includes training in farm mechanics, farm management, practical nursing, are welding and office work.

Circleville Twp. Trustees To Study Zoning Objections

Circleville Township's Board of Trustees is scheduled to consider several objections voiced last night concerning a zoning plan for the township.

The objections were submitted during a public hearing at the Courthouse last night on the proposed zoning resolution. It was the third public meeting held here in connection with the plan.

The Trustees are scheduled to meet Friday morning for further consideration of the proposal. The object will be to decide whether or not to accept the regulations as proposed by an appointed zoning commission or recommend additional changes.

Richard Penn, attorney for the planning and zoning board, said the Trustees must act swiftly if the proposed zoning ordinance is to be placed on the November ballot for approval or disapproval by township voters.

HE NOTED that if further changes are made by the trustees, the matter must be referred back to the planning and zoning board. This means another hearing must be held. Penn recommended the Trustees act within five days. He noted that a hearing could then be advertised and held within 10 days.

In order for the regulations to be on the November ballot, the ordinance should be in the hands of the Board of Elections by Aug. 1, Penn said.

Representatives of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad and Russell Palm, area land holder and owner of a drive-in theater in the areas involved, requested changes be made in the plan.

Neither Palm nor the railroad representatives were present at the second hearing held by the zoning board. However, both attended the initial public airing.

Both Palm and the C & O spokesman requested a change in the zoning of property they owned.

29 Vietnamese Die in Ambush

104 Reds Killed In Mopup Move

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Viet Cong guerrillas ambushed and destroyed an army convoy in the jungles of the central highlands Wednesday, killing 29 government troops.

But the Vietnamese Defense Ministry also reported today that government forces killed 104 guerrillas in a mopup operation a few miles north of the ambush.

The convoy was making its way with military supplies from the coastal city of Qui Nhon, 250 miles north of Saigon, to Pleiku in the interior.

The Viet Cong smashed the trucks with mines, then overran them. They gathered up a machine gun and 30 individual weapons before melting into the jungle.

The Defense Ministry said many government troops were wounded and five were missing. It said the Viet Cong lost three men.

In the operation in Kontum Province, 25 miles north of Pleiku, government troops found 59 Viet Cong bodies and captured considerable supplies of Communist weapons, the Defense Ministry said. The operation had been going on for some time and ended Wednesday.

A terrorist lobbed an explosive device in Saigon today, slightly injuring two American servicemen and a Chinese passer-by.

The incident occurred on a sidewalk near a U.S. officers' billet at 7 a.m. An American spokesman said one of the soldiers was hit by fragments and the other hurt his leg when he dropped to the ground to avoid the blast.

The U.S. combat toll rose to 149 dead Wednesday when a Viet Cong sniper killed the pilot of a medical evacuation helicopter in the Mekong River delta 53 miles southwest of Saigon. The helicopter had picked up a wounded American and was taking off.

Three other Americans on board were injured when the helicopter veered off of control and overturned. The wounded man and the three helicopter crewmen were taken to Saigon by another helicopter.

Soldier Turns Envoy

Taylor Faces Great Challenge

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, ending nearly a half century as a soldier, appealed to his comrades today for support in his new task of trying to bring victory in South Viet Nam.

"I ask your continued support in the area to which I go—where security of the United States and the free world are at stake," Taylor said as he stood before the Pentagon's top brass.

The setting was the 62-year-old Taylor's retirement ceremony, cutting short his term as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff so he can take over as U.S. ambassador to beleaguered South Viet Nam.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, conferring on Taylor a third Oak Leaf Cluster representing a fourth Distinguished Service Medal, hailed him as "one of the major architects" in the reshaping of U.S. defense policies.

Taylor already wears more than 40 decorations for valor and service in Normandy and Korea, and such cold war fronts as Berlin.

The military turned out its best for the ceremony—a crack honor guard representing all the armed forces.

Witnessing the ceremony in a plaza in front of the Pentagon were his wife and his mother.

Taylor was recalled from civilian life by the late President John F. Kennedy to be Kennedy's personal military adviser and in 1962 was named chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

The citation for Taylor's Oak Leaf Cluster said Taylor "distinguished himself in a position of great responsibility" as JCS chairman.

President Johnson was scheduled to attend a later White House ceremony at which Taylor was to be sworn in as ambassador. The Senate approved his nomination Wednesday night by voice vote.

A soldier-diplomat who speaks seven languages, Taylor will fly to Saigon Saturday night to take over leadership of both the civilian and military efforts of the United States to drive the Communist guerrillas out of South Viet Nam.

This is Taylor's second retirement since his graduation from West Point 42 years ago.

In 1959, he retired as Army chief of staff, in a blaze of controversy over Eisenhower ad-

Negro Youth Is Hanged

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A Negro boy found hanged in a wooded area was identified by his father today as Jerry Maxey, 14, "a kid who wouldn't bother anybody."

The father, Robert Maxey, 41, a mail porter at Atlanta Terminals, said he was sure his son had been murdered.

"He wasn't despondent in any way," Maxey said. "He was a happy little boy. He wouldn't have killed himself."

The boy was one of four sons of Maxey and his wife. They also have four daughters. The family lives about a mile from where the body was found Wednesday hanging from a tree in a northwest Atlanta urban renewal area.

Dr. Henry Snell, assistant Fulton County medical examiner, said the boy had been dead about eight hours when found. He placed the time of death at about noon.

Officers declined to theorize on what might have happened.

ministration defense policies. Taylor contended that the country's conventional forces — especially the Army — were being neglected dangerously in favor of strategic nuclear power.

Two years later, the Kennedy administration adopted many of Taylor's military suggestions and President John F. Kennedy brought the four-star general out of retirement to serve as his personal military adviser.

It was in this role that Taylor went to South Viet Nam in late 1961 and returned with recommendations that led to the massive U.S. programs to save Viet Nam from falling to the Communists.

Since then, he has been back to Viet Nam four times, has taken part in 10 Southeast Asia strategy conferences in Honolulu and has kept close touch with the war from Washington.

Johnson Hails Aid Bill OK

House Approves $3.3 Billion Fund

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has hailed House passage of a $3.3-billion foreign aid bill as a victory for American foreign policy and the American people.

Final House action on the measure came late Wednesday after Rep. Otto E. Passman, D-La., was defeated in his efforts to make further cuts in the total which already had been reduced $200 million from Johnson's original "barebones" request for $3.5 billion. The reduction was the smallest since the Korean War.

Johnson promptly issued a statement saying the House action was "in line with the best interests of America and the best interests of the Free World."

"I congratulate the members who backed a measure which was realistically and honestly conceived. This is an important victory for American foreign policy and that means for every American citizen."

Passage came on a 231-174 roll call vote, with 176 Democrats and 55 Republicans voting in favor of the measure. Opposed were 63 Democrats and 111 Republicans.

The appropriations measure which provides the foreign aid money was then sent to the Senate, where the Foreign Relations Committee is working on the President's foreign aid authorization request. This first step merely sets the ceiling on foreign aid spending. Action on the authorization will follow.

Wednesday's vote ended 10 years of dominant influence by Passman over foreign aid funds in the House. He is chairman of a House Appropriations subcommittee that handles foreign aid.

But he pledged to "keep on fighting this monstrosity" and asked "I don't think 9 times out of 10 is too bad an average, do you?"

He had made a last effort to slice another $247 million from the aid program and lost on a 208-198 roll call vote.

Congress' OK Finally Given

Negro Leaders Promise Tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress finally completed action on the civil rights bill today as the House passed the historic measure and sent it to the White House to be signed into law.

House approval of the Senate-passed bill brought to an end a year-long legislative struggle conducted against a background of rising racial tensions.

President Johnson is expected to sign the bill quickly in hopes its bars against discrimination will help ease the pressure of civil rights demonstrations and countermeasures taken to oppose them.

Negro leaders have promised a quick test of some of the bill's provisions, and some Southern members of Congress have predicted the first results of its passage will be increased violence, not a lessening of it.

The House originally passed its own version of the bill last February, 290 to 130. In the Senate, Southerners battled the bill with a three-months debate but on June 19 the Senate finally passed it 72 to 27 in a revised form. That sent the bill back to the House.

There was talk at one time that the President would sign the bill with a big ceremony on July 4—Independence Day, but the White House decided instead on quick action.

Presidential press secretary George E. Reedy said that Johnson conferred with House Speaker John W. McCormack and other House officers and "plans to sign it as soon as it gets down here." He said that it "looks like there will be a statement and ceremony early this evening."

Space Aide Denies Glenn Given Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Space Agency spokesman says a report that Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr. will return as an adviser on the Apollo moon shot program is not true.

The spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said Wednesday the former astronaut has talked with NASA Administrator James Webb about returning to the space program but that nothing has been decided.

"He has not been offered a job and he has not asked for a job," the spokesman said.

He added, however, that the spaceman from New Concord, Ohio, and Webb had discussed the possibility of Glenn playing a future role in the space program.

Glenn quit the space program early this year and set out to wrest the Democratic nomination from incumbent Stephen M. Young of Ohio. Glenn withdrew, however, when an inner ear ailment caused by a fall in his bathroom was slow to correct itself.

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — A 56-year-old Akron man, paralyzed from the neck down since suffering a broken neck in a fight with a woman Saturday night, has died. The man, James T. Dosch, died in City Hospital Wednesday.

Police said Dosch was injured outside a bar when the woman grabbed him by the hair and twisted his neck. The woman, identified by police as Mrs. Madeline Watkins, 40, of Akron, was charged with suspicion and was held in Summit County jail in lieu of $10,000 bond.

8 Ohio Cities OK'd For Training Setup

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The federal government has approved eight Ohio cities for manpower training courses costing more than $700,000.

The Bureau of Unemployment Compensation announced Wednesday that 535 trainees will be accepted for courses at Alliance, Ashtabula, Cleveland, Lorain, Mansfield, Marion, Portsmouth and Warren. The course will be given this summer, fall and next winter at high schools in the eight cities. The course includes training in farm mechanics, farm management, practical nursing, and welding and office work.

The charred hulk of the station wagon was found June 23 about 12 miles from Philadelphia.

The search, which involved 400 sailors, was centered in Newton County, immediately south of Neshoba County.

An FBI agent said every road had been searched in Neshoba County. Dragging operations were suspended but a door-to-door search continued.

29 Vietnamese Die in Ambush

104 Reds Killed In Mopup Move

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Viet Cong guerrillas ambushed and destroyed an army convoy in the jungles of the central highlands Wednesday, killing 29 government troops.

But the Vietnamese Defense Ministry also reported today that government forces killed 104 guerrillas in a mopup operation a few miles north of the ambush.

The convoy was making its way with military supplies from the coastal city of Qui Nhon, 250 miles north of Saigon, to Pleiku in the interior.

The Viet Cong smashed the trucks with mines, then overran them. They gathered up a machine gun and 30 individual weapons before melting into the jungle.

The Defense Ministry said many government troops were wounded and five were missing. It said the Viet Cong lost three men.

In the operation in Kontum Province, 25 miles north of Pleiku, government troops found 59 Viet Cong bodies and captured considerable supplies of Communist weapons, the Defense Ministry said. The operation had been going on for some time and ended Wednesday.

A terrorist lobbed an explosive device in Saigon today, slightly injuring two American servicemen and a Chinese passer-by.

The incident occurred on a sidewalk near a U.S. officers' billet at 7 a.m. An American spokesman said one of the soldiers was hit by fragments and the other hurt his leg when he dropped to the ground to avoid the blast.

The U.S. combat toll rose to 149 dead Wednesday when a Viet Cong sniper killed the pilot of a medical evacuation helicopter in the Mekong River delta 53 miles southwest of Saigon. The helicopter had picked up a wounded American and was taking off.

Three other Americans on board were injured when the helicopter veered out of control and overturned. The wounded man and the three helicopter crewmen were taken to Saigon by another helicopter.

Chillicothe Council Adds Negro Member

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP)—The Chillicothe City Council has named the first Negro councilman to that body in the city's history.

He is the Rev. Melvin L. Woodard, pastor of the First Baptist Church, named to succeed Councilman Truman Morris who resigned two weeks ago.

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—A Negro boy found hanged in a wooded area was identified by his father today as Jerry Maxey, 14, "a kid who wouldn't bother anybody."

The father, Robert Maxey, 41, a mail porter at Atlanta Terminals, said he was sure his son had been murdered.

"He wasn't despondent in any way," Maxey said. "He was a happy little boy. He wouldn't have killed himself."

The boy was one of four sons of Maxey and his wife. They also have four daughters. The family lives about a mile from where the body was found Wednesday hanging from a tree in a northwest Atlanta urban renewal area.

Dr. Henry Snell, assistant Fulton County medical examiner, said the boy had been dead about eight hours when found. He placed the time of death at about noon.

Officers declined to theorize on what might have happened.

Taylor Faces Great Challenge

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, ending nearly a half century as a soldier, appealed to his comrades today for support in his new task of trying to bring victory in South Viet Nam.

"I ask your continued support in the area to which I go—where security of the United States and the free world are at stake," Taylor said as he stood before the Pentagon's top brass.

The setting was the 62-year-old Taylor's retirement ceremony, cutting short his term as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff so he can take over as U.S. ambassador to beleaguered South Viet Nam.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, conferring on Taylor a third Oak Leaf Cluster representing a fourth Distinguished Service Medal, hailed him as "one of the major architects" in the reshaping of U.S. defense policies.

Taylor already wears more than 40 decorations for valor and service in Normandy and Korea, and such cold war fronts as Berlin.

The military turned out its best for the ceremony—a crack honor guard representing all the armed forces.

Witnessing the ceremony in a plaza in front of the Pentagon were his wife and his mother.

Taylor was recalled from civilian life by the late President John F. Kennedy to be Kennedy's personal military adviser and in 1962 was named chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

The citation for Taylor's Oak Leaf Cluster said Taylor "distinguished himself in a position of great responsibility" as JCS chairman.

President Johnson was scheduled to attend a later White House ceremony at which Taylor was to be sworn in as ambassador. The Senate approved his nomination Wednesday night by voice vote.

A soldier-diplomat who speaks seven languages, Taylor will fly to Saigon Saturday night to take over leadership of both the civilian and military efforts of the United States to drive the Communist guerrillas out of South Viet Nam.

This is Taylor's second retirement since his graduation from West Point 42 years ago.

In 1959, he retired as Army chief of staff, in a blaze of controversy over Eisenhower ad-

Congress' OK Finally Given

Negro Leaders Promise Tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress finally completed action on the civil rights bill today as the House passed the historic measure and sent it to the White House to be signed into law.

House approval of the Senate-passed bill brought to an end a year-long legislative struggle conducted against a background of rising racial tensions.

President Johnson is expected to sign the bill quickly in hopes its bars against discrimination will help ease the pressure of civil rights demonstrations and countermeasures taken to oppose them.

Negro leaders have promised a quick test of some of the bill's provisions, and some Southern members of Congress have predicted the first results of its passage will be increased violence, not a lessening of it.

The House originally passed its own version of the bill last February, 290 to 130. In the Senate, Southerners battled the bill with a three-months debate but on June 19 the Senate finally passed it 72 to 27 in a revised form. That sent the bill back to the House.

There was talk at one time that the President would sign the bill with a big ceremony on July 4—Independence Day, but the White House decided instead on quick action.

Presidential press secretary George E. Reedy said that Johnson conferred with House Speaker John W. McCormack and other House officers and "plans to sign it as soon as it gets down here." He said that it "looks like there will be a statement and ceremony early this evening."

Space Aide Denies Glenn Given Post

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Space Agency spokesman says a report that Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr. will return as an adviser on the Apollo moon shot program is not true.

The spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said Wednesday the former astronaut has talked with NASA Administrator James Webb about returning to the space program but that nothing has been decided.

"He has not been offered a job and he has not asked for a job," the spokesman said.

He added, however, that the spaceman from New Concord, Ohio, and Webb had discussed the possibility of Glenn playing a future role in the space program.

Glenn quit the space program early this year and set out to wrest the Democratic nomination from incumbent Stephen M. Young of Ohio. Glenn withdrew, however, when an inner ear ailment caused by a fall in his bathroom was slow to correct itself.

Akron Woman Breaks Man's Neck; He Dies

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — A 56-year-old Akron man, paralyzed from the neck down since suffering a broken neck in a fight with a woman Saturday night, has died. The man, James T. Dosch, died in City Hospital Wednesday.

Police said Dosch was injured outside a bar when the woman grabbed him by the hair and twisted his neck. The woman, identified by police as Mrs. Madeline Watkins, 40, of Akron, was charged with suspicion and was held in Summit County jail in lieu of $10,000 bond.

SW Blue Cross Rate Increase Is OKd Again

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The state superintendent of insurance today reaffirmed his approval of certain rate adjustments for Hospital Care Corp., of Cincinnati.

This company, known as Blue Cross of Southwestern Ohio submitted a formal request for certain rate adjustments last April 24.

These adjustments involved increases of 75 cents a month to as high as $2.60 a month on the plan's five most widely sold contracts.

The proposed rates were approved by William R. Morris, the superintendent, last May 2. At that time several individuals and organizations asked an opportunity of voicing protest. A hearing was held in Wilmington June 22.

Morris said today his reaffirmation and approval of the May 22 decision followed a conference with members of his staff and Edward J. Kirwin, chief attorney examiner for the Ohio Board of Tax Appeals.

Morris said that a thorough analysis of the official report on which the original approval was based had not been challenged.

He said the report further showed that protests were largely based on charges of excessive costs on the part of hospitals and administrative staffs. Most of the witnesses protesting the increase, he said, urged exhaustive and expensive studies of the plan.

But Morris pointed out that such a study was called for by joint resolutions of the state legislature prior to adjournment last year and that such a study is presently being made by the legislative Service Commission.

Morris said it was his feeling the financial situation in which this Blue Cross plan presently finds itself and the established trend of continued and increasing underwriting losses clearly necessitated approval of a schedule of rates to assure solvency of Hospital Care Corp. for the immediate future.

He said he reaffirmed his previous approval of the rates for two reasons, (1) to insure the continued ability of this plan to pay claims promptly and in full, and (2) insofar as possible to permit the plan's continued operation as now set up pending the final reports and recommendations of the legislative service commission.

The U. S. dollar is worth about $1.07 in Canada.

He noted this was the only parcel of land along the C & O. railroad south of Circleville considered suited to industrial use. "Most of the land in this area is subject to overflow from the Scioto River," he said.

The C & O representatives also noted that no special provisions for flood plain zoning had been made. Several apparent contradictions in the zoning regulations were pointed out by C & O representatives.

Ervin Leist, city service director, expounded on the provisions for flood plain zoning.

He noted that a state commission of which he had been a member recommended that land subject to flooding be zoned in such a manner to prevent excessive economic losses.

The commission recommended such land be zoned for agriculture, parks, recreation areas, airports and landing fields, mining, quarry and gravel operations or for storage of materials which would not be damaged by flood.

HE NOTED the erection of buildings for permanent habitation should be prohibited.

Palm noted that land near Hargus Creek which was subject to flooding had been zoned residential, although it

Ohio Urged Seek Trade In Europe

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Europe can provide a profitable market for Ohio product, a member of the Ohio Development Department's Export Council said today.

Paul W. Norris of Columbus urged the Council to nail down that market on its 100-man tour of European countries Nov. 6-25.

Development Director George Wilson said the Council was formed to help increase Ohio industry's present $1.3 billion export market. He said the European trade mission of about 100 business experts would be similar to "blitz trips" sponsored by the department to a dozen major cities in the United States recently.

"There is a European market for Ohio products that should be profitable and result in more jobs," Norris told the Council at its first meeting here.

William A. Notton of Cincinnati said Ohio manufacturers could sell more products to Europeans if they explained that credit could be obtained in the United States.

But it was back down to earth today. The youth is applying for a permit to learn to drive a car.

Costa Rican Chief Asks Anti-Cuba Move

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Francisco Orlich of Costa Rica has joined with President Johnson in urging the Organization of American States "to take meaningful steps" to resist Cuban-directed aggression in the Western Hemisphere.

And after this joint communique was issued Wednesday, Orlich ventured a prediction—that Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro will be overthrown by his own people "in a month, a year, two years."

He pointed out that an earlier zoning study had recommended this land be zoned for recreational purposes.

Penn said flood plain zoning had not been considered by the board. He reported the general feeling was this land would be used for agricultural purposes.

The zoning proposals have a section which states the use of any land for agricultural purposes shall not be prohibited. They felt this section covered the flood plain areas since no land has been specifically zoned for agriculture only.

Lawrence Liston, chairman for the Board of Trustees, said the requests will be given due consideration.

PENN indicated the time factor faced by the Trustees will prohibit the drafting of flood plain regulations.

Township Trustees are Liston, Luther List and John Fissell. Mrs. Martha Purcell is clerk of the board.

Congress' OK

In speaking of early evening, Reedy apparently meant the period beyond 6 p.m.

For more than a year the bill was the subject of intensive negotiating in both the House and Senate before it finally emerged as a compromise package supported by Democratic and Republican leaders in Congress.

The bill wraps into one big bundle a number of measures designed to help Negroes achieve equality in nearly all phases of national life into which the federal government can reach.

It bars discrimination in employment practices—by both unions and employers—and in hotels, motels, restaurants, movies, and other places serving the public. It arms the government with powers to cut off federal funds for programs in which discrimination occurs.

It also grants new powers to the attorney general to speed desegregation of public schools and other public facilities, such as parks, playgrounds and libraries.

It tightens provisions contained in the first civil rights law passed this century—in 1957—aimed at protecting Negro voting rights.

It also creates a community relations service designed to provide machinery for voluntary settlement of racial disputes through mediation and conciliation. And it extends for four years the life of the Civil Rights Commission, with added powers.

All but one of the provisions—that dealing with discrimination in employment—take effect as soon as the bill is signed by the President. But many others have built-in delays intended to give state and local authorities a chance to settle complaints arising under the new law.

Columbus Youth Is Fined $150

Steve Graber, 19, Columbus, entered pleas of guilty yesterday to charges of malicious destruction of property and petit larceny. The case was heard in Circleville Municipal Court.

Graber was involved with four Franklin County juveniles in recent vandalism at the Ashville Girl Scout Campsite on the Emerson Brown farm.

Acting Municipal Judge Richard Penn levied fines totaling $150 and costs. He handed Graber a 20 day jail sentence.

However, he suspended $50 of the fines and both jail sentences on the condition that Graber make full restitution of damaged and stolen property within five days. The juveniles were turned over to Franklin County authorities.

Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff Warren Straley arrested Graber.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The state superintendent of insurance today reaffirmed his approval of certain rate adjustments for Hospital Care Corp., of Cincinnati.

This company, known as Blue Cross of Southwestern Ohio submitted a formal request for certain rate adjustments last April 24.

These adjustments involved increases of 75 cents a month to as high as $2.60 a month on the plan's five most widely sold contracts.

The proposed rates were approved by William R. Morris, the superintendent, last May 2. At that time several individuals and organizations asked an opportunity of voicing protest. A hearing was held in Wilmington June 22.

Morris said today his reaffirmation and approval of the May 22 decision followed a conference with members of his staff and Edward J. Kirwin, chief attorney examiner for the Ohio Board of Tax Appeals.

Morris said that a thorough analysis of the official report on which the original approval was based had not been challenged.

He said the report further showed that protests were largely based on charges of excessive costs on the part of hospitals and administrative staffs. Most of the witnesses protesting the increase, he said, urged exhaustive and expensive studies of the plan.

But Morris pointed out that such a study was called for by joint resolutions of the state legislature prior to adjournment last year and that such a study is presently being made by the legislative Service Commission.

Morris said it was his feeling the financial situation in which this Blue Cross plan presently finds itself and the established trend of continued and increasing underwriting losses clearly necessitated approval of a schedule of rates to assure solvency of Hospital Care Corp. for the immediate future.

He said he reaffirmed his previous approval of the rates for two reasons, (1) to insure the continued ability of this plan to pay claims promptly and in full, and (2) insofar as possible to permit the plan's continued operation as now set up pending the final reports and recommendations of the legislative service commission.

He noted this was the only parcel of land along the C & O. railroad south of Circleville considered suited to industrial use. "Most of the land in this area is subject to overflow from the Scioto River," he said.

The C & O representatives also noted that no special provisions for flood plain zoning had been made. Several apparent contradictions in the zoning regulations were pointed out by C & O representatives.

Ervin Leist, city service director, expounded on the provisions for flood plain zoning.

He noted that a state commission of which he had been a member recommended that land subject to flooding be zoned in such a manner to prevent excessive economic losses.

The commission recommended such land be zoned for agriculture, parks, recreation areas, airports and landing fields, mining, quarry and gravel operations or for storage of materials which would not be damaged by flood.

HE NOTED the erection of buildings for permanent habitation should be prohibited. Palm noted that land near Hargus Creek which was subject to flooding had been zoned residential, although it

Ohio Urged Seek Trade In Europe

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Europe can provide a profitable market for Ohio product, a member of the Ohio Development Department's Export Council said today.

Paul W. Norris of Columbus urged the Council to nail down that market on its 100-man tour of European countries Nov. 6-25.

Development Director George Wilson said the Council was formed to help increase Ohio industry's present $1.3 billion export market. He said the European trade mission of about 100 business experts would be similar to "blitz trips" sponsored by the department to a dozen major cities in the United States recently.

"There is a European market for Ohio products that should be profitable and result in more jobs," Norris told the Council at its first meeting here.

William A. Notton of Cincinnati said Ohio manufacturers could sell more products to Europeans if they explained that credit could be obtained in the United States.

Pilot Is Seeking Car Driver Permit

MOUNT VERNON, Ohio (AP) — Dave Wiley of Mount Vernon was flying high Wednesday.

On his 18th birthday he soloed at Port Columbus Airport. It is the earliest age solo flights are permissible.

Instructor Jim Neeland gave young Wiley the chance to solo after 11 hours of dual instruction. The flying lessons were a Christmas gift from his parents. But it was back down to earth today. The youth is applying for a permit to learn to drive a car.

Costa Rican Chief Asks Anti-Cuba Move

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Francisco Orlich of Costa Rica has joined with President Johnson in urging the Organization of American States "to take meaningful steps" to resist Cuban-directed aggression in the Western Hemisphere.

And after this joint communique was issued Wednesday, Orlich ventured a prediction—that Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro will be overthrown by his own people "in a month, a year, two years."

In speaking of early evening, Reedy apparently meant the period beyond 6 p.m.

For more than a year the bill was the subject of intensive negotiating in both the House and Senate before it finally emerged as a compromise package supported by Democratic and Republican leaders in Congress.

The bill wraps into one big bundle a number of measures designed to help Negroes achieve equality in nearly all phases of national life into which the federal government can reach.

It bars discrimination in employment practices—by both unions and employers—and in hotels, motels, restaurants, movies, and other places serving the public. It arms the government with powers to cut off federal funds for programs in which discrimination occurs.

It also grants new powers to the attorney general to speed desegregation of public schools and other public facilities, such as parks, playgrounds and libraries.

It tightens provisions contained in the first civil rights law passed this century—in 1957—aimed at protecting Negro voting rights.

It also creates a community relations service designed to provide machinery for voluntary settlement of racial disputes through mediation and conciliation. And it extends for four years the life of the Civil Rights Commission, with added powers.

All but one of the provisions—that dealing with discrimination in employment—take effect as soon as the bill is signed by the President. But many others have built-in delays intended to give state and local authorities a chance to settle complaints arising under the new law.

Columbus Youth Is Fined $150

Steve Graber, 19, Columbus, entered pleas of guilty yesterday to charges of malicious destruction of property and petit larceny. The case was heard in Circleville Municipal Court.

Graber was involved with four Franklin County juveniles in recent vandalism at the Ashville Girl Scout Campsite on the Emerson Brown farm.

Acting Municipal Judge Richard Pennell fined Graber $150 and costs. He handed Graber a 20 day jail sentence.

However, he suspended $50 of the fines and both jail sentences on the condition that Graber make full restitution of damaged and stolen property within five days. The juveniles were turned over to Franklin County authorities.

Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff Warren Straley arrested Graber.

Auto Blaze Doused By Ashville Firemen

The Ashville - Harrison Volunteer Fire Department doused a blazing automobile motor today on Route 104.

The car is owned by Willard Tackett of Waverly. He said it apparently started from a gas leak in the carburetor.

Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff George Linder estimated damage at $25.

CIRCLEVILLE Police Chief Robert Temple said today that persons selling fireworks will be prosecuted if apprehended by his department.

The local department received an early morning complaint today on two youths who set off firecrackers in the Pickaway Pleasant St. area.

Officers found the youngsters, confiscated the firecrackers and reprimanded them.

A GREAT deal of work goes into making a winning baseball team. . . The Circleville Lumber team in the Mosquito league of the local youth baseball program has not lost a game in two years.

The managers, Harry and Don Strawser, were on vacation this week. . . Rather than see the youngsters go without practice, Mrs. Allen Strawser, mother of the two managers, conducted a workout early today at the South Court Diamond.

An avid booster of the baseball program, Mrs. Strawser expressed remorse that there was no youth program when her sons were youngsters.

Ohio Rated Nearly Free Of Brucellosis

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Brucellosis, a potentially destructive cattle disease, has been virtually eliminated in Ohio with the state now rated as a modified certified Brucellosis-free state, Agriculture Director John M. Stackhouse reported Wednesday.

The director was advised of the state's status by Dr. Harry E. Golstein, chief of the department's animal industry division, and Dr. Carl E. Boyd, federal veterinarian in charge in Ohio.

Stackhouse credited Drs. Golstein and Boyd, and their aides, for getting the new state status well ahead of the original Dec. 1, 1965 target date.

Modern processing eliminates transmission of brucellosis to humans by way of milk. But it can be contracted in other ways, and is then known as undulant fever.

In cattle, the malady causes abortions and reduced milk yields.

The director said just 297 of the state's 105,796 cattle herds now contain one or more animals showing positive reactions to brucellosis testing. Dr. Golstein said 1.2 million cattle were tested in the last 18 months. Veterinarians in private practice aided state and federal veterinarians to accomplish the testing achievement.

Dr. Golstein said if continuing activity brings total elimination of brucellosis in cattle in the next 18 months, Ohio will be declared a certified brucellosis-free state.

New Comet Visible to Naked Eye

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — A new comet will be visible to the naked eye throughout North America tonight, says the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory.

The comet, named Tomita Gerber Honda after the three scientists who first sighted it, is expected to appear as a faint point of light low in the northwest horizon shortly after sunset, George Cornell, observatory spokesman, said.

The comet was first sighted June 6 headed toward the sun in the early morning hours. It now has passed the sun and is visible heading away in the evening.

The comet is expected to be visible for two to four weeks as it speeds away from our solar system.

Children Play on Circus Disaster Site

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Children making happy noises play today in a sprawling yard behind a modern schoolhouse. They're unaware this was the city's circus ground 20 years ago, and the scene of America's worst circus disaster.

On hot and humid July 6, 1944 fire broke out during a matinee performance of the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Circus, in town for a one-day stand under the big tent.

The fire left 168 dead, more than 500 injured; many were trampled to death in the panic, others died of burns and still others of suffocation.

The holocaust resulted in a tough new police safety code requiring canvas to be flame-proof.

For Rose Dunn, a registered nurse, and her children, Herbert and Betsy, then 5 and 3, the two decades since have been one long series of nightmares, they say.

"We have awakened many nights, and even now, I wake up screaming," says Mrs. Dunn.

"For many years, I was scared to be caught in a crowd," adds Herbert. "I think I've gotten over it, but every so often I find myself getting a sickly feeling in a crowded situation."

Mrs. Dunn and her children, were among 6,000 spectators in the big tent as bandmaster Merle Evans led his 29-piece band through a snappy opening number at 2 p.m.

As the circus progressed, a strong southwest wind sprang up outside.

At 2:40, Evan noticed a small horseshoe-shaped flame creeping up the side of the main tent.

He switched the band from ballet music—the exit tune for the animal act—to a march, "The Stars and Stripes Forever."

The abrupt change in tempo signaled to circus people that there was danger in the big top.

For moments, the flame near the main entrance looked small enough to be extinguished with a bucket of water. Then within seconds, blown by the sudden wind, the flame grew.

By 3 p.m., the circus ground was a smoldering bier.

From her haunted memories of 20 years, Mrs. Dunn recalls: "I was in an end seat up high when I suddenly became aware of nervous animals. To my right I saw flames, heard shouts of fire and a roar. I put my daughter on my shoulders and grabbed my son with my right hand."

"Looking down to the ground, I saw people trapped among collapsible chairs, bodies and blocked exits."

"With the fire drawing nearer, I told Herbert we had to jump. It was about 25 feet down. I pushed him and, with Betsy on my shoulders, I jumped right after him."

"We were lucky that the ground was soft. We weren't hurt. We crawled over countless bodies and suddenly there was an exit where somebody had cut a hole and removed a tent flap.

"Once we were outside, we still had to climb over rows of dead and injured people before we were led to safety."

What caused the fire? It was never officially established, but the explanation most generally accepted was that it started from a cigarette carelessly tossed aside in a men's room just outside the main entrance.

Six circus officials were charged with involuntary manslaughter. The official finding of the coroner held them guilty of "wanton and reckless conduct, either of commission or of omission where there is a duty to act."

They pleaded no contest and received prison sentences.

Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey doesn't play under a tent any more.

"We closed under canvas in 1956 in Pittsburgh," Rudy Bundy, vice president of the circus, said recently. "It was just impossible under the changing conditions to go on."

Ohio Billboard Ban Is Upheld

State Tribunal's Decision Unanimous

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The State Supreme Court has given its approval of Ohio's ban against billboards along the state's interstate highway system.

In a unanimous ruling, the high court overturned a lower court decision which had declared unconstitutional state laws prohibiting billboards within 660 feet of interstate highways.

Wednesday's decision gave the State Highway Department added impetus in its drive to rid the superhighways of outdoor advertising signs and to collect federal bonus money given states for billboard-free interstate roads.

The Supreme Court decision came on Highway Department appeal from an Allen County Common Pleas Court decision which declared the law unconstitutional.

The appeal stemmed from cases involving Ghaister Properties, Inc., and Ghaister Outdoor Advertising, Inc., of Lima. The highway department also had filed suit to force David Steiner and Wensinger Co., Lima, and William Troy and the Consolite Corp., Fremont, to remove signs near Lima.

A highway department spokesman said the appeal in the Ghaister cases was made in a way to settle the other cases.

Ohio Chief Justice Kingsley A. Taft said in the opinion that it is a proper use of the state's police powers to prohibit use of land as a nuisance.

Ohio Rated Nearly Free Of Brucellosis

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Brucellosis, a potentially destructive cattle disease, has been virtually eliminated in Ohio with the state now rated as a modified certified Brucellosis-free state, Agriculture Director John M. Stackhouse reported Wednesday.

The director was advised of the state's status by Dr. Harry E. Golstein, chief of the department's animal industry division, and Dr. Carl E. Boyd, federal veterinarian in charge in Ohio.

Stackhouse credited Drs. Golstein and Boyd, and their aides, for getting the new state status well ahead of the original Dec. 1, 1965 target date.

Modern processing eliminates transmission of brucellosis to humans by way of milk. But it can be contracted in other ways, and is then known as undulant fever.

In cattle, the malady causes abortions and reduced milk yields.

The director said just 297 of the state's 105,796 cattle herds now contain one or more animals showing positive reactions to brucellosis testing. Dr. Golstein said 1.2 million cattle were tested in the last 18 months.

Veterinarians in private practice aided state and federal veterinarians to accomplish the testing achievement.

Dr. Golstein said if continuing activity brings total elimination of brucellosis in cattle in the next 18 months, Ohio will be declared a certified brucellosis-free state.

The comet, named Tomita Gerber Honda after the three scientists who first sighted it, is expected to appear as a faint point of light low in the northwest horizon shortly after sunset, George Cornell, observatory spokesman, said.

The comet was first sighted June 6 headed toward the sun in the early morning hours. It now has passed the sun and is visible heading away in the evening.

The comet is expected to be visible for two to four weeks as it speeds away from our solar system.

Children Play on Circus Disaster Site

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Children making happy noises play today in a sprawling yard behind a modern schoolhouse.

They're unaware this was the city's circus ground 20 years ago, and the scene of America's worst circus disaster.

On hot and humid July 6, 1944 fire broke out during a matinee performance of the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Circus, in town for a one-day stand under the big tent.

The fire left 168 dead, more than 500 injured; many were trampled to death in the panic, others died of burns and still others of suffocation.

The holocaust resulted in a tough new police safety code requiring canvas to be flame-proof.

For Rose Dunn, a registered nurse, and her children, Herbert and Betsy, then 5 and 3, the two decades since have been one long series of nightmares, they say.

"We have awakened many nights, and even now, I wake up screaming," says Mrs. Dunn.

"For many years, I was scared to be caught in a crowd," adds Herbert. "I think I've gotten over it, but every so often I find myself getting a sickly feeling in a crowded situation."

Mrs. Dunn and her children, were among 6,000 spectators in the big tent as bandmaster Merle Evans led his 29-piece band through a snappy opening number at 2 p.m.

As the circus progressed, a strong southwest wind sprang up outside.

At 2:40, Evan noticed a small horseshoe-shaped flame creeping up the side of the main tent.

He switched the band from ballet music—the exit tune for the animal act—to a march, "The Stars and Stripes Forever."

The abrupt change in tempo signaled to circus people that there was danger in the big top.

For moments, the flame near the main entrance looked small enough to be extinguished with a bucket of water. Then within seconds, blown by the sudden wind, the flame grew.

By 3 p.m., the circus ground was a smoldering bier.

From her haunted memories of 20 years, Mrs. Dunn recalls: "I was in an end seat up high when I suddenly became aware of nervous animals. To my right I saw flames, heard shouts of fire and a roar. I put my daughter on my shoulders and grabbed my son with my right hand."

"Looking down to the ground, I saw people trapped among collapsible chairs, bodies and blocked exits."

"With the fire drawing nearer, I told Herbert we had to jump. It was about 25 feet down. I pushed him and, with Betsy on my shoulders, I jumped right after him."

"We were lucky that the ground was soft. We weren't hurt. We crawled over countless bodies and suddenly there was an exit where somebody had cut a hole and removed a tent flap.

"Once we were outside, we still had to climb over rows of dead and injured people before we were led to safety."

What caused the fire? It was never officially established, but the explanation most generally accepted was that it started from a cigarette carelessly tossed aside in a men's room just outside the main entrance.

Six circus officials were charged with involuntary manslaughter. The official finding of the coroner held them guilty of "wanton and reckless conduct, either of commission or of omission where there is a duty to act."

They pleaded no contest and received prison sentences.

Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey doesn't play under a tent any more.

"We closed under canvas in 1956 in Pittsburgh," Randy Bundy, vice president of the circus, said recently. "It was just impossible under the changing conditions to go on."

Ohio Billboard Ban Is Upheld

State Tribunal's Decision Unanimous

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The State Supreme Court has given its approval of Ohio's ban against billboards along the state's interstate highway system.

In a unanimous ruling, the high court overturned a lower court decision which had declared unconstitutional state laws prohibiting billboards within 660 feet of interstate highways.

Wednesday's decision gave the State Highway Department added impetus in its drive to rid the superhighways of outdoor advertising signs and to collect federal bonus money given states for billboard-free interstate roads.

The Supreme Court decision came on Highway Department appeal from an Allen County Common Pleas Court decision which declared the law unconstitutional.

The appeal stemmed from cases involving Ghastr Properties, Inc., and Ghastr Outdoor Advertising, Inc., of Lima. The highway department also had filed suit to force David Steiner and Wensinger Co., Lima, and William Troy and the Consolite Corp., Fremont, to remove signs near Lima.

A highway department spokesman said the appeal in the Ghastr cases was made in a way to settle the other cases.

Ohio Chief Justice Kingsley A. Taft said in the opinion that it is a proper use of the state's police powers to prohibit use of land as a nuisance.

Ohio Northern Names Lady Law Librarian

ADA, Ohio (AP) — Judith A. Brandt, a native of Steubenville, will become law librarian of Ohio Northern University's College of Law this fall, the university announced today.

Miss Brandt, who received a bachelor of arts degree from Ohio University and a bachelor of laws degree from Ohio Northern, was named to the post to replace E. Vergen Smith who retired last month.

Necessary Risk

Forthcoming visits to Washington by the premiers of Greece and Turkey constitute acknowledgment of the aloof position U. S. diplomacy has managed to maintain throughout the Cyprus dispute. It is a role fully as delicate as that of the go-between in a martial dispute.

Risks of this kind are not sensibly undertaken unless the consequences of inaction appear desperate. In the case of Cyprus there is abundant reason to believe they soon will be.

The mediation effort initiated by the United Nations has gotten nowhere. In requesting authority to continue for another three months Secretary General U Thant sees "no likelihood of a political settlement in the immediate future."

There is also the imminent danger of reversion to shooting. The arms buildup goes on. Recurrent threats or suspicions of invasion have been manipulated to create an atmosphere in which peace and war appear in precarious balance. Even conceding a certain amount of exaggeration for psychological maneuver, Greek and Turkish armed forces as well as their Cypriot subsidiaries, are looking down gun barrels at each other.

It is serious enough for NATO partners to be so embroiled. But the geographic position of Greece and Turkey, at the hinge of the power balance between East and West, compounds the critical nature of their quarrel.

Without freedom of maneuver in the Mediterranean, the Polaris security system would be seriously undercut. Hence the urgency of preventing further degeneration of the Cyprus dispute.

He's Proud of Miss Liberty

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—In 100,000 miles at sea Capt. George Clancy has never been out of sight of the Statue of Liberty.

In the last 17 years he has made 40,000 round trips from Battery Park to the statue, and has brought more than 10 million tourists to see her.

He even met aboard his ship—and later married—the daughter of the National Park Service superintendent who cares for the Statue of Liberty.

But Capt. Clancy has never been inside the monument himself. "I've never had a chance," explained the cherry little Irish skipper. "As soon as I get there, I have to turn around and come back. I'll do it when I retire."

But the great copper lady with the torch remains a dominant interest in the 54-year-old pilot's life. He feels that in a way he "owns a piece" of her. One of his most cherished possessions is a small piece of metal cut from the statue's base during renovation work several years ago.

And he never tires of watching the emotional reactions of his passengers on viewing the great monument that has symbolized American freedom to so many millions of arriving immigrants.

"Some of them break into tears—especially those from foreign countries," he said. "Many of them kneel and kiss the earth around the statue. Some take a bit of earth with them."

This Saturday—the Fourth of July—marks the 80th anniversary of the acceptance of the statue as a gift of the French people.

Proud as a bantam rooster, Capt. Clancy will be at the helm today of a spanking new vessel, "Miss Circle Line," as she makes her inaugural trip out to Liberty Island amid a welcoming din from other ships in the harbor.

She cost $850,000, is 155 feet long, and will carry 1,037 passengers. According to Francis J. Barry, Circle Lines president, she is the largest vessel of her type built in this country in 35 years.

Some tourist attractions here, such as the Woolworth Tower, the Flatiron building and Grant's Tomb, have waned in favor. But the popularity of the Statue of Liberty has increased with the passage of time.

Recently from 850,000 to 900,000 people have come to see her each year. That figure is expected to rise to at least one million annually during the New York World's Fair period.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A FLAMBOYANT gentleman, sporting a beret, paint-stained smock, and long-flowing beard, was consulting a prominent psychiatrist. "You say you are NOT an artist?" queried the latter. "Then why the beret, smock, and beard?" "That," proclaimed the visitor, "is what I am here to find out."

Tollers in television have a jargon of their own. Cynthia Lowry has collected a few of their more colorful definitions:

BILLBOARD is an announcement at the beginning or end of a program giving the sponsor credit. A BURP is an extraneous noise on TV circuits. A CRAWK is a performer with the ability to imitate a wide variety of animal sounds. A HITCH HIKE is a commercial at the end of a program for a sponsor's product which is not advertised earlier in the program. And the NUT is the complete cost of producing a program.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES: In a beary: "Try our enthusiastic stew. We put everything we had in it."

On a church bulletin board: "Your faith is your fortune."

In a Hollywood tavern: "Three barmaids. No waiting."

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

After a winter of inactivity, stiff, unused muscles produce a variety of "Charley horse" ailments.

Dr. Marcus J. Stewart of Memphis, Tenn., warns that "Charley horse" complaints should not be dismissed too casually, for they sometimes can represent injuries to muscles, bones or joints which must not be neglected.

Dr. Stewart describes three distinct types of muscular Charley horse. First: a local muscle spasm caused by minor injury. This responds readily to rest and simple treatment.

Second: a hemorrhage into a muscle for which absolute bed rest is essential.

Third: an actual tear of the muscle tissue which may even require surgical repair.

There is a tendency to try to "work out" with more exercise the painful kinks of a Charley horse injury. This could convert a simple injury into a complicated and long-lasting one.

All injuries which are accompanied by persistent pain or discomfort deserve rest and professional medical attention.

In the United States alone there are 18,000,000 people between the ages of 65 and 100 and 12,000 people 100 years old or older.

These statistics of longevity reflect the tremendous accomplishments of medicine in the prevention of disease, the early diagnosis of illness, and the remarkable medical and surgical treatments that are now available.

The hope and encouragement offered by such gratifying health facts should replace some of the unreasoning fears so often created by well motivated (but scare-producing) fund-raising campaigns.

Car-chasing has long been a favorite pastime of dogs. Its popularity is generally attributed to a sporting spirit.

"Not necessarily so," says a Danish veterinary scientist. Some dogs may simply enjoy the thrill of the chase, but it was found that others were in hot pursuit of an "exhaust pipe fix." They had actually become addicted to automobile exhaust fumes.

This astute and astonishing scientific observation has opened an investigation of possible human addiction to similar fumes. Researchers hope to learn if humans, too, may be susceptible to this addiction, for both medical and practical reasons.

The sport of car-chasing may be socially acceptable in dog circles, but the dangers of carbon monoxide fumes still represent a very real hazard.

Has your own car been inspected for possible carbon monoxide leaks? This should be done regularly.

People Who Hate Themselves

By John Chamberlain

I've just caught up with the alleged comedy of Lenny Bruce, the "sick" satirist who specializes in a night club patter that takes off on wild and frequently disgusting flights which, nevertheless, succeeded in exposing the hypocrisies of professionally noble people as well as the nasty things that nobility ought to revolt against. Because he is candid enough to reveal his sick fantasies in public, the law has been after Mr. Bruce, both in Chicago and in Los Angeles, and now, I understand, it is getting after him in New York. The rap against him in Chicago was obscenity, the penalty being a year in jail and a $1,000 fine. His conviction on the charge is now being appealed.

Bruce's patter is, for long stretches, hard to dig for a square like myself, and I am of two minds — ambivalent is the fancy word for it — about his humor. I could do without his four-letter words and his liking for scatological references, even though I realize he is deliberately throwing them at people whose own language is something to apologize for when they take one martini too many. But when Mr. Bruce, being deliberately sly, tosses about certain words that bring up the same images evoked by the "art" pictures in conventional magazines, it is hard to see why he should get an obscenity rap when so many respectable folk who appeal to the same instincts go free.

My real objection to Lenny Bruce is not that he becomes lurid in taking off after hypocrites, but that he obviously loathes himself. Since there is such a thing as original sin — meaning original imperfection in the moral sphere — there isn't a person living who is entitled to feel exempt from self-criticism. But it is the mark of the decent human being to work at improving on the original self that has been handed to him by nature. As Emerson said, "Do what you can with what you've got." This profound bit of nineteenth century wisdom was accepted by the comics of other generations. Mark Twain loathed hypocrites just as strongly as does Lenny Bruce, but he wrote feelingly about Huckleberry Finn, who was honestly personified in a boy who resisted corruption.

Finley Peter Dunne, the creator of Mr. Dooley, could puncture the double-dealing ward politicians of his day, and also hit at some ward politics in higher places. But he recognized the moral drive in the public life of his day as symbolized by Theodore Roosevelt. Twain and Finley Dunne were not sick in themselves.

To my mind, they are trying to get Lenny Bruce on the wrong rap. And, of course, there is no legal way to get him on the charge that should be brought against him. There is no law in this country against self-hatred.

Speaking of hypocrisy, we might mention that the sanctimonious Soviets withdrew their man, Alex Metreveli, from the Wimbledon tennis tournament rather than have him face a South African player, Abe Segal. If the Russians objected to meeting South Africans, they shouldn't have entered the tournament in the first place. And if the Wimbledon authorities were obliged to take the political behavior of countries into consideration when making up their list of international competitors, there would be no tournament at all. Certainly no Soviet citizen would ever be invited to play. It is perfectly true that apartheid in South Africa is offensive to a morality which accepts all of God's children as equal in law and justice, but when have the Soviets ever abided by such morality? Did the Hungarians who wished to free their country in 1956 get justice from Moscow? Did the Polish officers who were murdered in the Katyn Forest get a fair trial?

Arthur Ashe, Jr., the Negro tennis player from California, spoke with the voice of common sense when he said, "I am a Negro and apartheid objectively concerns me. But I would play Segal any time. I have to look at Segal as an individual... if you want to be consistent about it, I wouldn't go out to play the Russians. I don't like what they are doing either."

Mr. Ashe obviously respects himself, and is following the Emerson line of doing what he can with what he's got. He might even win the Wimbledon tournament one of these days. He is a living reproof both to hypocrites and to sick humorists who hate themselves.

Necessary Risk

Forthcoming visits to Washington by the premiers of Greece and Turkey constitute acknowledgment of the aloof position U. S. diplomacy has managed to maintain throughout the Cyprus dispute. It is a role play as delicate as that of the go-between in a martial dispute.

Risks of this kind are not sensibly undertaken unless the consequences of inaction appear desperate. In the case of Cyprus there is abundant reason to believe they soon will be.

The mediation effort initiated by the United Nations has gotten nowhere. In requesting authority to continue for another three months Secretary General U Thant sees "no likelihood of a political settlement in the immediate future."

There is also the imminent danger of reversion to shooting. The arms buildup goes on. Recurrent threats or suspicions of invasion have been manipulated to create an atmosphere in which peace and war appear in precarious balance. Even conceding a certain amount of exaggeration for psychological maneuver, Greek and Turkish armed forces as well as their Cypriot subsidiaries, are looking down gun barrels at each other.

It is serious enough for NATO partners to be so embroiled. But the geographic position of Greece and Turkey, at the hinge of the power balance between East and West, compounds the critical nature of their quarrel.

Without freedom of maneuver in the Mediterranean, the Polis security system would be seriously undercut. Hence the urgency of preventing further degeneration of the Cyprus dispute.

He's Proud of Miss Liberty

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—In 100,000 miles at sea Capt. George Clancy has never been out of sight of the Statue of Liberty.

In the last 17 years he has made 40,000 round trips from Battery Park to the statue, and has brought more than 10 million tourists to see her.

He even met aboard his ship—and later married—the daughter of the National Park Service superintendent who cares for the Statue of Liberty.

But Capt. Clancy has never been inside the monument himself. "I've never had a chance," explained the cherry little Irish skipper. "As soon as I get there, I have to turn around and come back. I'll do it when I retire."

But the great copper lady with the torch remains a dominant interest in the 54-year-old pilot's life. He feels that in a way he "owns a piece" of her. One of his most cherished possessions is a small piece of metal cut from the statue's base during renovation work several years ago.

And he never tires of watching the emotional reactions of his passengers on viewing the great monument that has symbolized American freedom to so many millions of arriving immigrants.

"Some of them break into tears—especially those from foreign countries," he said. "Many of them kneel and kiss the earth around the statue. Some take a bit of earth with them."

This Saturday—the Fourth of July—marks the 80th anniversary of the acceptance of the statue as a gift of the French people.

Proud as a bantam rooster, Capt. Clancy will be at the helm today of a spanking new vessel, "Miss Circle Line," as she makes her inaugural trip out to Liberty Island amid a welcoming din from other ships in the harbor.

She cost $850,000, is 155 feet long, and will carry 1,037 passengers. According to Francis J. Barry, Circle Lines president, she is the largest vessel of her type built in this country in 35 years.

Some tourist attractions here, such as the Woolworth Tower, the Flatiron building and Grant's Tomb, have waned in favor. But the popularity of the Statue of Liberty has increased with the passage of time.

Recently from 850,000 to 900,000 people have come to see her each year. That figure is expected to rise to at least one million annually during the New York World's Fair period.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A FLAMBOYANT gentleman, sporting a beret, paint-stained smock, and long-flowing beard, was consulting a prominent psychiatrist. "You say you are NOT an artist?" queried the latter. "Then why the beret, smock, and beard?" "That," proclaimed the visitor, "is what I am here to find out."

Toilers in television have a jargon of their own. Cynthia Lowry has collected a few of their more colorful definitions:

BILLBOARD is an announcement at the beginning or end of a program giving the sponsor credit. A BURP is an extraneous noise on TV circuits. A CRAWK is a performer with the ability to imitate a wide variety of animal sounds. A HITCH HIKE is a commercial at the end of a program for a sponsor's product which is not advertised earlier in the program. And the NUT is the complete cost of producing a program.

On a church bulletin board: "Your faith is your fortune."
In a Hollywood tavern: "Three barmaids. No waiting."

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

After a winter of inactivity, stiff, unused muscles produce a variety of "Charley horse" ailments.

Dr. Marcus J. Stewart of Memphis, Tenn., warns that "Charley horse" complaints should not be dismissed too casually, for they sometimes can represent injuries to muscles, bones or joints which must not be neglected.

Dr. Stewart describes three distinct types of muscular Charley horse. First: a local muscle spasm caused by minor injury. This responds readily to rest and simple treatment.

Second: a hemorrhage into a muscle for which absolute bed rest is essential.

Third: an actual tear of the muscle tissue which may even require surgical repair.

There is a tendency to try to "work out" with more exercise the painful kinks of a Charley horse injury. This could convert a simple injury into a complicated and long-lasting one.

All injuries which are accompanied by persistent pain or discomfort deserve rest and professional medical attention.

In the United States alone there are 18,000,000 people between the ages of 65 and 100 and 12,000 people 100 years old or older.

Scioto Flood Area Appraisal Tags Readied

5-County District Properties Rated As to Benefits

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Officials of the Scioto Conservancy District, set up three years ago to propose flood control and water management projects for a five-county area, said today appraisal of properties to be affected by the first projects is nearly completed.

Richard Midden, secretary-treasurer of the conservancy district, said that after the properties are appraised—as to benefits to be derived against cost—the projects will be submitted to the conservancy court for study and possible final approval.

Midden said issuance of conservancy bonds and start of construction on some of the projects could come this year.

The conservancy court, made up of one Common Pleas Court judge from each of the five counties in the district, will allow affected property owners and public corporations to study the appraisals and raise any objections which will be decided upon before a final approval is made.

Owners of some 11,000 parcels of property in the district—which would benefit from the projects—would have to pay part of the construction and maintenance costs by assessment over a 30-year period.

The detailed appraisals of affected properties have included calculations of the amount of actual flooding under maximum flood conditions. Midden said this would be similar to a flood such as that in 1913, which prompted the state law that allowed for setting up of conservancy districts to deal with flood control and water management problems.

Midden said the yardstick for the value of a proposed project will be whether "there is more benefit derived than the cost of doing the work." The appraisal will show exactly how much benefit each affected parcel of property and corporation would get from a proposed project.

After final approval, bonds will be issued and contracts let by the conservancy district for work on the first projects.

Proposed projects to be included in the appraisal report are:

Alum Creek Dam for flood control and water supply. This dam would be located north of the village of Africa in Delaware County.

Bellepoint Dam for flood control. This dam would be located on the Scioto River .9 of a mile from the Delaware County village of Bellepoint with the reservoir extending into Marion County.

Mill Creek Dam for flood control and low flow augmentation, to be located 1.5 miles north of Bellepoint on Mill Creek. Low flow augmentation means that water can be stored in the dam's reservoir during periods when the heavy flood threat is not critical and released as needed during the normal drought months in the fall.

Floodgates for Hoover Dam, located north of Columbus in Delaware County.

Flood walls on the north and south sides of Chillicothe. The flood wall to the north would be parallel to Riverside Street and will connect with the proposed bypass of highways 23-35-50 east of the city. The embankment along the highways would form

Indonesians Ask For Time To Determine Fate

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Where is Indonesia going? The question is of concern to Washington and Moscow, London and Peking.

If you ask an Indonesian—the reply is apt to be something like this:

"We are a young country—give us time."

Vastly rich in resources and with 103 million people scattered over 3,000 islands, Indonesia long has been regarded as a pivot to the future in this part of the world.

With the end of World War II, Indonesia began a struggle against centuries of Dutch rule and won its independence in 1949.

Today widespread poverty is common in the midst of natural riches.

"You must remember," says an American resident, "that for years upon years the wealth of this country was drained off to serve 400 families in Holland. They have made accomplishments here in little more than 14 years. It will take time, but Indonesia must be given time."

Others disagree. They say there must be drastic changes, that patience and more time will continue a slide toward complete economic ruin.

Despite government restrictions and bureaucratic shackles, foreign firms are drawn to the wealth of Indonesia—oil, rubber, tin and minerals.

The Dutch are coming back. The British, most recent targets because of the anti-Malaysia campaign, are trying to hang on. Americans are here, along with Germans—East and West, Communist Chinese, Australians, Indians and Japanese.

Near the luxurious Hotel Indonesia, the Japanese, West Germans and Australians are building new embassies, indicating they intend to be around for a while. The sites are only a few blocks from the shell of the British Embassy, burned by rioters last September in an anti-Malaysia frenzy.

In the city of Jakarta, a few television antennas sprout from the sharply sloping red tile roofs. There is one channel, a government station that broadcasts two or three hours at night.

Most Indonesians tell you that where their country is going is nobody's business but Indonesia's. Displaying a fervent brand of nationalism, they emphasize that it definitely is not the concern of Western powers.

The United States, Britain and most of the countries of the West are, in Indonesian terms, old established forces in conflict with the new emerging forces. The new emerging forces, in Indonesian terms, include the Soviet Union, Communist China, countries of the African-Asian bloc, the Middle East and Latin America. Indonesia pictures itself as a leader among these countries.

President Sukarno, who has almost unrestricted powers, has launched Indonesia on the path of so-called guided democracy.

He has so far successfully maintained a precarious power balance between the military and the Communists, the country's two centers of organized strength. Backing first one, then the other, Sukarno has made himself leader in fact as well as title.

So far, Sukarno has been able to extend his internal balancing act to Indonesia's role in the East-West cold war. He has been courted by both sides, taken aid from both, and threatened to swing about dramatically if pushed too hard.

Whether Indonesia approves or not, its future course is of concern in the seats of world power. Recent developments in other parts of Southeast Asia—and in Washington and Peking—overshadow the whole area.

Indonesia may find itself caught up in events that could upset the balance of even the most agile.

Information Of Interest To Veterans

(Veterans and their dependents who may have any questions concerning any benefits from the Veterans Administration should bring their questions to James P. Shea, Pickaway County Veterans Service Officer. His office is located in the basement of the County Court House.)

According to Pickaway County Veterans Service Officer, James P. Shea, veterans with peacetime service only are eligible for burial in national cemeteries as well as those veterans with wartime service. For both groups, the last period of active service must have terminated honorably.

Also, Shea said, reservists who die while performing active duty for training are eligible.

An eligible veteran's wife, husband, widow, widower, minor children, and under certain conditions, unmarried adult children may be buried in a national cemetery, if it is so desired, Shea added.

And, the Service Officer continued, if the veteran's wife dies before the veteran, the wife may be buried in the national cemetery providing the veteran makes written intention to be buried there upon death. In most national cemeteries the veteran and widow, or wife, if she dies first, are buried in the same grave.

Reservations or application for burial in a national cemetery cannot be accepted before death, Shea concluded, and the benefit includes the gravesite and actual interment, including opening, closing, and marking the grave, provided without charge.

How Weather Looks Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Here is the official U. S. Weather Bureau summary of Ohio's weather:

Scattered showers Wednesday afternoon netted Youngstown .16 of an inch of rainfall and Toledo reported .10.

Skies were partly cloudy during the night and temperatures dropped into the 60s generally. Fair weather was expected over the state this morning, but by afternoon cloudiness was to increase and a few scattered thundershowers were likely as temperatures climbed into the 80s or low 90s. Winds were to remain light and variable today.

A weak cold front approaching from the west was bringing a chance of thundershowers to northern Ohio tonight and Friday. But most of the state was to have only isolated showers. Low temperatures tonight were again to be in the 60s and high temperatures on Friday will be mostly in the 80s.

State Solons Vote To Study Apportionment

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Legislative Service Commission, the fact-finding arm of the Ohio General Assembly, has approved a study of the state's method of apportioning the assembly's membership.

The study, approved unanimously by commission members Wednesday, is to be made in the light of U. S. Supreme Court decisions requiring that apportionment of both houses of bicameral state legislatures be based solely on a population basis.

Under Ohio's 1903 "Hanna Amendment" to the state constitution, each of Ohio's 88 counties is given a representative in the House regardless of population.

The commission authorized House Speaker Roger Cloud to appoint a committee to make the study.

Cloud, commission chairman, said his appointments will include floor leaders of each house of the General Assembly and chairmen of House and Senate judiciary committees, along with other legislators to give the study committee geographical representation.

Cloud said that although litigation challenging the Hanna Amendment is still pending in court, a study should get under way in the expectation that the amendment might be knocked out.

Constitutional amendments for approval by voters probably would be required, Cloud said, because Ohio's constitution is self-operating in reapportionment matters.

The commission received a preliminary report Wednesday on Little Hoover Commission recommendations for savings in state operations.

It was explained that the commission, composed of management experts, made several suggestions requiring legislative action to put into effect.

Cloud said the report would remain confidential until completed.

Scioto Flood Area Appraisal Tags Readied

5-County District Properties Rated As to Benefits

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Officials of the Scioto Conservancy District, set up three years ago to propose flood control and water management projects for a five-county area, said today appraisal of properties to be affected by the first projects is nearly completed.

Richard Midden, secretary-treasurer of the conservancy district, said that after the properties are appraised—as to benefits to be derived against cost—the projects will be submitted to the conservancy court for study and possible final approval.

Midden said issuance of conservancy bonds and start of construction on some of the projects could come this year.

The conservancy court, made up of one Common Pleas Court judge from each of the five counties in the district, will allow affected property owners and public corporations to study the appraisals and raise any objections which will be decided upon before a final approval is made.

Owners of some 11,000 parcels of property in the district—which would benefit from the projects—would have to pay part of the construction and maintenance costs by assessment over a 30-year period.

The detailed appraisals of affected properties have included calculations of the amount of actual flooding under maximum flood conditions. Midden said this would be similar to a flood such as that in 1913, which prompted the state law that allowed for setting up of conservancy districts to deal with flood control and water management problems.

Midden said the yardstick for the value of a proposed project will be whether "there is more benefit derived than the cost of doing the work." The appraisal will show exactly how much benefit each affected parcel of property and corporation would get from a proposed project.

After final approval, bonds will be issued and contracts let by the conservancy district for work on the first projects.

Proposed projects to be included in the appraisal report are:

Alum Creek Dam for flood control and water supply. This dam would be located north of the village of Africa in Delaware County.

Bellepoint Dam for flood control. This dam would be located on the Scioto River .9 of a mile from the Delaware County village of Bellepoint with the reservoir extending into Marion County.

Mill Creek Dam for flood control and low flow augmentation, to be located 1.5 miles north of Bellepoint on Mill Creek. Low flow augmentation means that water can be stored in the dam's reservoir during periods when the heavy flood threat is not critical and released as needed during the normal drought months in the fall.

Floodgates for Hoover Dam, located north of Columbus in Delaware County.

Flood walls on the north and south sides of Chillicothe. The flood wall to the north would be parallel to Riverside Street and will connect with the proposed bypass of highways 23-35-50 east of the city. The embankment along the highways would form

Indonesians Ask For Time To Determine Fate

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Where is Indonesia going? The question is of concern to Washington and Moscow, London and Peking.

If you ask an Indonesian—the reply is apt to be something like this:

"We are a young country—give us time."

Vastly rich in resources and with 103 million people scattered over 3,000 islands, Indonesia long has been regarded as a pivot to the future in this part of the world.

With the end of World War II, Indonesia began a struggle against centuries of Dutch rule and won its independence in 1949.

Today widespread poverty is common in the midst of natural riches.

"You must remember," says an American resident, "that for years upon years the wealth of this country was drained off to serve 400 families in Holland. They have made accomplishments here in little more than 14 years. It will take time, but Indonesia must be given time."

Others disagree. They say there must be drastic changes, that patience and more time will continue a slide toward complete economic ruin.

Despite government restrictions and bureaucratic shackles, foreign firms are drawn to the wealth of Indonesia—oil, rubber, tin and minerals.

The Dutch are coming back. The British, most recent targets because of the anti-Malaysia campaign, are trying to hang on. Americans are here, along with Germans—East and West, Communist Chinese, Australians, Indians and Japanese.

Near the luxurious Hotel Indonesia, the Japanese, West Germans and Australians are building new embassies, indicating they intend to be around for a while. The sites are only a few blocks from the shell of the British Embassy, burned by rioters last September in an anti-Malaysia frenzy.

In the city of Jakarta, a few television antennas sprout from the sharply sloping red tile roofs. There is one channel, a government station that broadcasts two or three hours at night.

Most Indonesians tell you that where their country is going is nobody's business but Indonesia's. Displaying a fervent brand of nationalism, they emphasize that it definitely is not the concern of Western powers.

The United States, Britain and most of the countries of the West are, in Indonesian terms, old established forces in conflict with the new emerging forces. The new emerging forces, in Indonesian terms, include the Soviet Union, Communist China, countries of the African-Asian bloc, the Middle East and Latin America. Indonesia pictures itself as a leader among these countries.

President Sukarno, who has almost unrestricted powers, has launched Indonesia on the path of so-called guided democracy. He has so far successfully maintained a precarious power balance between the military and the Communists, the country's two centers of organized strength. Backing first one, then the other, Sukarno has made himself leader in fact as well as title.

So far, Sukarno has been able to extend his internal balancing act to Indonesia's role in the East-West cold war. He has been courted by both sides, taken aid from both, and threatened to swing about dramatically if pushed too hard.

Whether Indonesia approves or not, its future course is of concern in the seats of world power. Recent developments in other parts of Southeast Asia—and in Washington and Peking—overshadow the whole area.

Indonesia may find itself caught up in events that could upset the balance of even the most agile.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Reflection and Happiness

DEAR READERS: Today is a very special day for me. It is my 25th wedding anniversary, and I have this to say:

I was reared in a home with a mother and father who really loved each other, so I know what love is.

I have seen both a son and a daughter safely through the trials of "life's tempestuous sea," so I know what satisfaction is.

I have had by my side for 25 years the gentlest, kindest, most considerate human being I have ever known, so I know what happiness is.

I have prayed. And my prayers have been answered, so I know what faith is.

And because I have known all these things, I know what wealth is.

Truly yours,
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: A new family moved into our neighborhood, so I called on them and made them feel welcome. I told them if they had children the ages of mine to send them over to play. (I have three boys, 4, 7 and 8.). Well, they have two girls, 11 and 16, who are no company at all for mine. Their 11-year-old started coming to my house every day, pretending to "play" with my 8-year-old boy, but all she does is follow ME around and ask me questions until I think I will go out of my mind! Abby, I don't need an 11-year-old girl friend. She is at my door every time I turn around, and she never goes home until I suggest it. How can I get rid of this little pest?

FRAZZLED NERVES
DEAR ABBY: If you haven't the courage to tell an 11-year-old child that you do not have the time to visit with her, then you probably lack the courage to speak to her mother about it, which is my alternate suggestion.

DEAR ABBY: I recently attended a tea for the wife of a United States Senator. When I arrived I was told (not asked) by one of the guests to take my hat off because the guest of honor was not wearing one. I did not remove my hat because I felt that it was my affair if I chose to wear a hat. I noticed that about two-thirds of the women at the tea were hatless. I felt that the woman who told me to remove my hat was rude, and I am certain that she felt that I was rude to keep mine on. In your opinion, who was wrong?

Feminine Trend In New Summer Accessories

By SUSAN BARDEN

Handbags are following the trend toward accenting femininity and have appeared with a softer look in recent accessory collections.

Shapes are rounder, detailing includes such pretty effects as tucks, shirring, scallops, cut-outs and embossing.

And the leathers are more elegant than ever. There are grained, smooth, wax, suede, lustre and patent finishes.

Sizes vary from small to larger, with just a few of the huge feedbag types still remaining for women who demand a big carrier that will double as an over-night case. Most, however, are deep rather than wide, and charming in outlining and design.

Light is right when choosing a color. The pastel palette is all-encompassing. Off-white and the stocking tints — new this season — are easily accessorized with footwear.

Other favored shades are scarlet, navy and bright blue, and the natural leather color range. And, of course, black patent is always good.

Vanilla ice cream is a traditional accompaniment to cantaloupe, but fruit sherbet is a good choice for weight-watchers! Lemon, lime, orange or raspberry, flavored sherbet are all compatible with melon.

Police Mercy Run Fails To Save Woman

WARREN, Ohio (AP) — Sheriff's deputies raced to get a supply of a rare blood type for a traffic victim, but doctors were unable to save the injured woman's life Wednesday night.

The victim, Miss Juanita Fenton, 26, of Kinsman, was hurt in a head-on collision outside Warren.

Officials at Warren General Hospital, where she was taken, learned that four pints of B-negative blood were available at the blood bank in Cleveland.

Cuyahoga County Sheriff's Deputy James Poyle raced 28 miles, siren screaming, to carry the blood from the blood bank on Cleveland's near east side to the intersection of U. S. 422 and Ohio 306 in Geauga County. He made the trip in 20 minutes.

Gauga deputies turned the blood over to Trumbull County deputies, who delivered it to the hospital. Miss Fenton died an hour later.

John Stamm, 59, of Orwell, driver of the other car, was reported in fair condition at Trumbull Memorial Hospital.

Modern Way To Solve Window Problem

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

When it comes to windows, the average woman naturally thinks in terms of shades, blinds, curtains and side draperies.

They're the obvious solutions to the window-dressing problem, but they're not the only answers. For novelty or necessity, other treatments can be used.

For privacy, shutters are sometimes desirable. They can also shut off a poor view effectively or can be used to camouflage the size of a window, making it look larger than it is.

Shutters are often the choice, too, because they're so decorative.

One modern installation used striped braid to create colorful louvers on shutter frames. Most effective!

Shutters are also effective to frame a window that's prettily curtained or draped. This is especially appealing in period rooms.

When it comes to draperies, they needn't always be hung at the sides of the windows.

One decorator cleverly hung a series of windows with glass curtains. Over the curtains, draperies were hung on top and bottom rods, then pulled together at center with a tieback. The treatment is one that would lend itself nicely to French doors.

Sometimes windows need to be camouflaged rather than dressed. This is the case, for example, when they interfere with wall space, as they may do in a bedroom if the bed is to be placed under the window.

In a model room setting, this problem was handled by covering the window with fabric shutters that not only concealed the window but created a decorative headboard effect for the bed.

Sometimes window-dressing presents difficulties, but with a little decorating know-how, and a dash of daring, most problems can be solved in a pleasing way.

When you want to cook a thrifty chuck beef steak on the outdoor grill, marinate the meat in French dressing for about an hour; then apply unseasoned meat tenderizer (according to manufacturer's directions) and you're ready to go.

Ohio Senators Differ On Pay Boost Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ohio's two Democratic senators apparently differ on whether they should get pay raises. In the Senate vote Wednesday night on an amendment to knock out of the $564 million federal pay raise bill a $7,500-a-year salary increase for senators and representatives, Frank J. Lausche voted for the amendment but Stephen M. Young voted against it. The Senate defeated the amendment, thereby keeping the pay raise intact, 60-25.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Reflection and Happiness

DEAR READERS: Today is a very special day for me. It is my 25th wedding anniversary, and I have this to say:

I was reared in a home with a mother and father who really loved each other, so I know what love is.

I have seen both a son and a daughter safely through the trials of "life's tempestuous sea" so I know what satisfaction is.

I have had by my side for 25 years the gentlest, kindest, most considerate human being I have ever known, so I know what happiness is.

I have prayed. And my prayers have been answered, so I know what faith is.

And because I have known all these things, I know what wealth is.

Truly yours,
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: A new family moved into our neighborhood, so I called on them and made them feel welcome. I told them if they had children the ages of mine to send them over to play. (I have three boys, 4, 7 and 8.) Well, they have two girls, 11 and 16, who are no company at all for mine. Their 11-year-old started coming to my house every day, pretending to "play" with my 8-year-old boy, but all she does is follow ME around and ask me questions until I think I will go out of my mind! Abby, I don't need an 11-year-old girl friend. She is at my door every time I turn around, and she never goes home until I suggest it. How can I get rid of this little pest?

FRAZZLED NERVES
DEAR ABBY: If you haven't the courage to tell an 11-year-old child that you do not have the time to visit with her, then you probably lack the courage to speak to her mother about it, which is my alternate suggestion.

DEAR ABBY: I recently attended a tea for the wife of a United States Senator. When I arrived I was told (not asked) by one of the guests to take my hat off because the guest of honor was not wearing one. I did not remove my hat because I felt that it was my affair if I chose to wear a hat. I noticed that about two-thirds of the women at the tea were hatless. I felt that the woman who told me to remove my hat was rude, and I am certain that she felt that I was rude to keep mine on. In your opinion, who was wrong?

Junior Girl Scout Troop Attends Camp

Junior Girl Scout Troop No. 1132 recently spent three days and nights at regional Camp Ken Jockey on Darby Creek west of Columbus.

Fifteen girls participated in the camp program which included nature hikes, informal outdoor activities, plus a camp-wide song fest and square dancing with a band of 100 Girl Scouts from other Ohio cities, held in the recently dedicated Trumbull Lodge.

For most of the girls it was their first experience in tent sleeping and campfire cooking. Four adult counselors, Mrs. Gobel Branham, Mrs. Ralph Dunkle, Mrs. Charles Jolliffe and Mrs. Willard McConaughy accompanied the troop.

Members attending the session were Beverly Branham, Patty Davis, Christy Dresbach, Kathy Dunkle, Lee Jolliffe, Jo Ellen Jones, Sarah Knox, Benny Luna, Lynette McConaughy, Emily Moon, Marilyn Penn, Judy Rose, Chris Stanton, Chrystal Wilson and Jennifer Woodward.

TODDLER'S COSTUME — This two-piece outfit fashioned of chambray denim consists of a sleeveless overblouse and smartly tailored shorts. Warm weather fashions for the small fry are designed for durability and feature many extra details.

Logan Elm Garden Club Members Meet

Eight members and two guests were present when Logan Elm Garden Club met in the home of Mrs. Robert Bowler. Meditation was given by the hostess.

Minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. Roll call was answered with members naming their favorite rose.

Mrs. Raymond Moats, president, named a nominating committee to prepare a slate of officers for the coming year. Members were urged to attend the OAGC convention to be held in August at the Biltmore Hotel, Dayton.

Following the business meeting, the group participated in a discussion on roses and their care.

Bottle arrangements brought by members were judged with Mrs. Judson Beougher winning first place. Rules governing a vertical arrangement were discussed by Mrs. Beougher.

The July meeting will be held in the home of Miss Yvonne Drake.

Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Feminine Trend In New Summer Accessories

By SUSAN BARDEN

Handbags are following the trend toward accenting femininity and have appeared with a softer look in recent accessory collections.

Shapes are rounder, detailing includes such pretty effects as tufts, shirring, scallops, cut-outs and embossing.

And the leathers are more elegant than ever. There are grained, smooth, wax, suede, lustre and patent finishes.

Sizes vary from small to larger, with just a few of the huge feedbag types still remaining for women who demand a big carrier that will double as an over-night case. Most, however, are deep rather than wide, and charming in outlining and design.

Light is right when choosing a color. The pastel palette is all-encompassing. Off-white and the stocking tints — new this season — are easily accessorized with footwear.

Other favored shades are scarlet, navy and bright blue, and the natural leather color range. And, of course, black patent is always good.

Vanilla ice cream is a traditional accompaniment to cantaloupe, but fruit sherbet is a good choice for weight-watchers! Lemon, lime, orange or raspberry, flavored sherbet are all compatible with melon.

Police Mercy Run Fails To Save Woman

WARREN, Ohio (AP) — Sheriff's deputies raced to get a supply of a rare blood type for a traffic victim, but doctors were unable to save the injured woman's life Wednesday night.

The victim, Miss Juanita Fenton, 26, of Kinsman, was hurt in a head-on collision outside Warren.

Officials at Warren General Hospital, where she was taken, learned that four pints of B-negative blood were available at the blood bank in Cleveland.

Cuyahoga County Sheriff's Deputy James Poyle raced 28 miles, siren screaming, to carry the blood from the blood bank on Cleveland's near east side to the intersection of U. S. 422 and Ohio 306 in Geauga County. He made the trip in 20 minutes.

Gauga deputies turned the blood over to Trumbull County deputies, who delivered it to the hospital. Miss Fenton died an hour later.

John Stamm, 59, of Orwell, driver of the other car, was reported in fair condition at Trumbull Memorial Hospital.

Modern Way To Solve Window Problem

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

When it comes to windows, the average woman naturally thinks in terms of shades, blinds, curtains and side draperies.

They're the obvious solutions to the window-dressing problem, but they're not the only answers. For novelty or necessity, other treatments can be used.

For privacy, shutters are sometimes desirable. They can also shut off a poor view effectively or can be used to camouflage the size of a window, making it look larger than it is.

Shutters are often the choice, too, because they're so decorative.

One modern installation used striped braid to create colorful louvers on shutter frames. Most effective!

Shutters are also effective to frame a window that's prettily curtained or draped. This is especially appealing in period rooms.

When it comes to draperies, they needn't always be hung at the sides of the windows.

One decorator cleverly hung a series of windows with glass curtains. Over the curtains, draperies were hung on top and bottom rods, then pulled together at center with a tieback. The treatment is one that would lend itself nicely to French doors.

Sometimes windows need to be camouflaged rather than dressed. This is the case, for example, when they interfere with wall space, as they may do in a bedroom if the bed is to be placed under the window.

In a model room setting, this problem was handled by covering the window with fabric shutters that not only concealed the window but created a decorative headboard effect for the bed.

Sometimes window-dressing presents difficulties, but with a little decorating know-how, and a dash of daring, most problems can be solved in a pleasing way.

When you want to cook a thrifty chuck beef steak on the outdoor grill, marinate the meat in French dressing for about an hour; then apply unseasoned meat tenderizer (according to manufacturer's directions) and you're ready to go.

Ohio Senators Differ On Pay Boost Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ohio's two Democratic senators apparently differ on whether they should get pay raises. In the Senate vote Wednesday night on an amendment to knock out of the $564 million federal pay raise bill a $7,500-a-year salary increase for senators and representatives, Frank J. Lausche voted for the amendment but Stephen M. Young voted against it. The Senate defeated the amendment, thereby keeping the pay raise intact, 60-25.

ISRAEL IN EGYPT AND HOW WELCOME CHANGED
TO PERSECUTION

Scripture—Genesis 46:1-47:12; Exodus 1.

By R. H. RAMSEY

IN THIS new quarter we begin a study of the history of Israel which takes us from the last years of Jacob and the period of slavery in Egypt to the beginning of Saul's reign.

Jacob, grandson of Abraham, was the father of the 12 men who founded the Twelve Tribes of Israel (first listed in Genesis 36:22-26). The story of how Joseph, one of Jacob's sons, was sold into slavery by his brothers; and subsequently became prime minister of Egypt, is vividly told in Genesis 37-41.

As prime minister, Joseph ordered the storage of surplus crops during the "fat" years so when the seven years of famine struck the Middle East, Egypt, alone, had an abundance of food.

Hearing this, Jacob twice sent his remaining sons to Egypt to buy food. In doing so, the brothers became reconciled with Joseph, who invited them to come to Egypt to live.

Learning Joseph was still alive, Jacob took his entire family—some 66 persons—to Egypt.

far into the nights contriving dresses, playthings and other surprises.

Were our Lord viewing this situation and knowledgeable of Joseph's concern for his aged parent's comfort, surely He would admonish us, "Go thou and do likewise" (Luke 10:37).

The material from Exodus assigned to our lesson introduces a period some hundreds of years later, when the descendants of Jacob have become a multitude, and marks a drastic change in the fortunes of the Israelites.

"Now there arose up a new king over Egypt, which knew not Joseph" (Exodus 1:8). The new king probably did not know of Joseph and the great things he had done for Egypt; or if he did, considered those services of earlier times totally unimportant to him.

The children of Israel represented the whole mass of foreigners and slaves transported to the Nile valley during military campaigns and Egyptian sovereigns always felt in imminent danger of a revolt from these foreigners. So pharaoh

"Be not forgetful to entertain strangers: for thereby some have entertained angels unawares."—Hebrews 13:2.

There they settled in the land of Goshen, an exceedingly fertile area east of the Bubastic branch of the Nile, where they could live a life apart from Egyptian influences. There, Joseph and Jacob were reunited.

Planning the introduction of his father and brothers to the pharaoh, Joseph insisted they tell the truth when pharaoh asked their occupation. Shepherding was a despised occupation in Egypt and, by telling the truth, the geographical separation of Israelites and Egyptians would be almost compulsory.

As expected, in the ensuing interview, pharaoh gives Goshen to the Israelites to live in (Genesis 47:6).

Now follows a passage which reveals Joseph's care for his father, a virtue vanishing from today's society. Young people do not want to remember those long years of helpless childhood when they were a burden and a care to their parents. They are unkindful of the tender kindness that nursed them through illnesses; that bore with their petulance; that freely sacrificed sleep and rest, sitting ordered the Israelites enslaved to build store-cities and other monuments to his glory.

Though the work was hard, overseers often cruel and food deliberately insufficient, the Hebrews, in the manner of oppressed peoples everywhere, continued to multiply, so a much more drastic measure was instituted. Pharaoh ordered midwives to kill each male child at birth.

When this, too, failed because the midwives refused to carry out the pharaoh's wishes, a command to the whole people: the Egyptians themselves were to throw every male Hebrew infant into the Nile.

As we conclude this lesson, let us recognize what has been clearly revealed here: that the purpose of God and the purpose of this pharaoh were diametrically opposed; while the king purposed to destroy the Israelites, it is God's determined counsel to deliver them. And, as we shall see in following lessons, God's will, as ever, prevailed.

From Sojourners to Slaves

ISRAEL IN EGYPT AND HOW WELCOME CHANGED
TO PERSECUTION

Scripture—Genesis 46:1-47:12; Exodus 1.

By R. H. RAMSEY

IN THIS new quarter we begin a study of the history of Israel which takes us from the last years of Jacob and the period of slavery in Egypt to the beginning of Saul's reign.
Jacob, grandson of Abraham, was the father of the 12 men who founded the Twelve Tribes of Israel (first listed in Genesis 36:22-26). The story of how Joseph, one of Jacob's sons, was sold into slavery by his brothers; and subsequently became prime minister of Egypt, is vividly told in Genesis 37-41.
As prime minister, Joseph ordered the storage of surplus crops during the "fat" years so when the seven years of famine struck the Middle East, Egypt, alone, had an abundance of food.

Hearing this, Jacob twice sent his remaining sons to Egypt to buy food. In doing so, the brothers became reconciled with Joseph, who invited them to come to Egypt to live.

Learning Joseph was still alive, Jacob took his entire family—some 66 persons—to Egypt.

far into the nights contriving dresses, playthings and other surprises.

Were our Lord viewing this situation and knowledgeable of Joseph's concern for his aged parent's comfort, surely He would admonish us, "Go thou and do likewise" (Luke 10:37).

The material from Exodus assigned to our lesson introduces a period some hundreds of years later, when the descendants of Jacob have become a multitude, and marks a drastic change in the fortunes of the Israelites.

"Now there arose up a new king over Egypt, which knew not Joseph" (Exodus 1:8). The new king probably did not know of Joseph and the great things he had done for Egypt; or if he did, considered those services of earlier times totally unimportant to him.

The children of Israel represented the whole mass of foreigners and slaves transported to the Nile valley during military campaigns and Egyptian sovereigns always felt in imminent danger of a revolt from these foreigners. So pharaoh ordered the Israelites enslaved to build store-cities and other monuments to his glory.

Though the work was hard, overseers often cruel and food deliberately insufficient, the Hebrews, in the manner of oppressed peoples everywhere, continued to multiply, so a much more drastic measure was instituted. Pharaoh ordered midwives to kill each male child at birth.

When this, too, failed because the midwives refused to carry out the pharaoh's wishes, a command to the same effect was issued to the whole people: the Egyptians themselves were to throw every male Hebrew infant into the Nile.

As we conclude this lesson, let us recognize what has been clearly revealed here: that the purpose of God and the purpose of this pharaoh were diametrically opposed; while the king purposed to destroy the Israelites, it is God's determined counsel to deliver them. And, as we shall see in following lessons, God's will, as ever, prevailed.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — "My God, what is there in this place that a man should want to get into it?" That was James A.
Garfield's view shortly after becoming president. He didn't have to bear the burden long, just 199 days.

He took office March 4, 1881 and 83 years ago today, July 2, 1881, was shot in the back by an assassin. He lingered 80 days and died Sept. 19.

The question raised by his long illness—how does a vice president take over from a disabled president and who determines disability?—has never been answered by act of Congress or constitutional amendment.

An attempt to answer it, and change the line of succession to the presidency, is pending in this Congress in the form of a constitutional amendment. Odds are Congress will quit for 1964 without acting.

Garfield was so plagued by people wanting government jobs that after two months in office he said: "It will cost me some struggle to keep from despising
the office-seeker."

He was shot by a disgruntled office-seeker, Charles J.
Guiteau, 39-year-old crooked lawyer and preacher who was 10 years younger than Garfield.
But Guiteau had mixed motives.
Like the President, he was a Republican.

Garfield was in a bruising Republican intraparty fight. On assassination day Guiteau wrote a note saying his act was a "necessity" to unite the party.

He sounded like a mental case. But after a 10½-week trial a jury ignored his insanity plea and convicted him. He was hanged June 30, 1882.

In his 80 days of dying Garfield performed only one official act: He signed extradition papers in a forgery case. Part of the time he was unconscious.
Vice President Chester A. Arthur never took over until Garfield died.

Some Cabinet members had wanted him to but were deterred by fear that Garfield could never resume the presidency, if he recovered, once Arthur had acted as president. There was similar uncertainty and inaction in President Wilson's illness.

During Garfield's illness there was a foreign crisis. And the machinery of government began to creak. But those were horse-and-buggy days. The country was safe from instant disaster because it was remote from any major foe.

It could hope to survive longer without a man in the White House than in this time of intercontinental missiles when a split-second decision by a chief executive could mean the difference between survival and disaster.

In the 83 years since Garfield, Congress has still not tackled the disability problem.
On this the Constitution has been unchanged from the beginning and has always been hazy.

If a president dies, resigns, or is unable to discharge the duties of his office, "The same shall devolve on the vice president."
But it doesn't say who decides a president is too disabled to function.

Nor does it answer: If a vice president takes over the duties of a disabled president, can the latter resume office if he recovers? And who shall say he has recovered?

President Johnson, lacking a clear-cut legal answer, has worked out an arrangement on this with House Speaker John McCormack, next in line to succeed him. President Dwight D.
Eisenhower and John F. Kennedy did the same with their vice presidents.

Congress has stepped in three times to meet another problem:
Who succeeds to the presidency if the president dies and there's

Garden Gossip

Mrs. Fred Minshall, Route 1, Kingston, has a seedless tomato. A volunteer plant, it came up in a geranium plant during the winter. The small tomatoes are not more than one and a half inches in diameter and have a delectable flavor.

Just for the fun of it, when the tomato plant started to bloom this spring in the house, Mrs. Minshall gave it a shot of Blossom Set. She harvested the first tomato on May 1. It was seedless.

Now the plant is outdoors and more tomatoes are coming. Thus far there have been five ripe tomatoes, all seedless.

Mrs. Minshall believes this plant to have come from some seeds of a big yellow tomato which she was saving.

Mrs. Fred Corcoran, Route 2, Williamsport, has planted lilies of the valley under her pine trees. She says she remembered a relative who had thick plantings of valley lilies under her pine trees. In the spring she used to pick the flowers and send them to a Cincinnati florist who sold them to his customers.

Gardeners have been telling Mr. Brehmer for several years that they wanted the chrysanthemum plants that they ordered earlier. He used to have them ready towards the last of June. This year he obliged. I know of at least two gardeners who have not planted their Brehmer chrysanthemums yet — and here it is two weeks or maybe three weeks later.

Mrs. John Mast on Route 188 sold her first sweet corn last Thursday June 25. Her first dozen ears went to Mrs. Ross Hamilton, Springhollow Road. But the family had sweet corn Saturday June 20.

The Masts were in Kentucky June 21 and Mrs. Mast declares her own Ohio vegetables are just as far along as Kentucky produce.

Hope Justice has relieved her grandfather, George Justice of Whisler, of the task of planting a cucumber patch. She has taken over the planting and cultivation entirely. Reports are that the pickle vines are doing splendidly, even if they have been planted thickly.

Pauline Schiff of near Lockbourne missed out on the fourth lesson of the course in modern advanced flower arranging given by Mrs. James Jackson of Ewington. She was back last Wednesday for the terminal lesson. We told her we missed her. She said she had been busy getting ready for a wedding. Her own! She is now Mrs. Bernard E. Savey.

We talked to Gail Wolfe at the Container Corporation last Friday. The plant has recently done some new landscaping and all they are waiting for now is for the grass to grow. There are sprinklers and such so we are giving the grass a month or six weeks.

Mrs. Leslie Karshner, Watt St., has many flowers and plants of interest. Right now she has successfully grown cotton from seed.

She gave Mrs. Willison Leist some cotton seeds but they have not put in their appearance, according to Mrs. Leist, who watches daily for the seeds to sprout. The Leists are next door neighbors of the Karshners.

The Willison Leist rose wintered over and is blooming with verve. This was a gift rose. It is salmon pink in color and definitely an aristocrat.

Mrs. Leist says all during the building of the new house the rose was carefully sheltered. It is blooming now and she cuts off all spent flowers.

The late Robert Dreisbach whose funeral was held last Saturday in Midland, Mich., was an entomologist of considerable renown. When I last talked to him we were discussing poison insecticides. He said what the world needed was not more chemists, but more entomologists.

Mrs. Richard Ice, N. Pickaway St., entertained for her son-in-law and daughter and their family, Dr. and Mrs. W. McLain of Carson City, Mich., and their children, Molly, Kelley and Jamie recently. Circleville relatives were the other guests at the outdoor barbecue. Mrs. Ice says she cannot schedule a party until 3 p. m. because the sun takes over up to that time.

We had the nicest surprise when we were inspecting Loring Hill's impressive garden the other day. We were following a grass path and suddenly when we turned a corner we came across a planting of Japanese iris. They were all about eight or ten inches in diameter, dark blue, white and lavender blue.

Hill plants his Japanese iris near a water faucet and gives them plenty of moisture.

The wisteria in the Hill garden has racemes of blossoms two and three feet long.

Mrs. Paul Conrad on Route 22 near the little state park is a "lily gal." She says that while some folks are in love with roses she thinks lilies are the most beautiful of all flowers.

Mrs. Turney Pontius has a lily planting of tall yellow, orange, red and white lilies that is indeed a fine sight.

Mrs. Ed Fetherolf's garden was as a picture with all the larkspur and gaillardia, to say nothing of the alliums and lilies.

Loring Hill is proud of his lilies. He was talking to Mrs. Kelson Bower one year and she was telling him about her day lilies. He blushing admits that at the time he did not know the difference. Anyway he ordered lilies as soon as he got home. That's how come he has lilies.

We have not seen Franklin McVickers for over a year. He is the daily hybridizer and lives beyond Williamsport. But now that daily time is nearing, his is a good garden to visit.

TROPHY WINNER — Mrs. Kenneth Hannan, 574 N. Pickaway St., holds the silver trophy she was awarded at the Wellston Rose Show for her winning entry. The entry was an abstract exhibited in the class, "The New Look" and was named King of Arrangements by rose show judges. Mrs. Hannan says it is the first time she ever won a trophy. This rose show is an annual event and one of the finest rose exhibitions in southern Ohio.

Strong Organizations Back Rose as National Flower

Led by the support of two of the nation's leading women's organizations, the drive to make the rose the national flower of the United States was voiced with renewed determination earlier this month in Washington.

Backing the rose for national honors before the House Administration Subcommittee on Library and Memorials on June 5 were the General Federation of Women's Clubs and the National Council of State Garden Clubs.

The hearing — the first conducted on a national floral emblem in six years — also took testimony advocating the rose from Rep. Lindley Beekworth of Texas, whose HJ Res. 10 designates the rose; the American Rose Society, the leading club of amateur rose growers; All-American Rose Selections, the pre-testing and educational group that annually selects the AARS winners; Rose, Inc., an association of growers of cut roses; and the Texas Rose Research Foundation.

In its statement to the subcommittee, the General Federation of Women's Clubs stated that, "The rose by its beauty has won a place in the hearts of the American people."

THE GROUP, which has a membership of 5½ million club women throughout the nation, reaffirmed its resolution of 1958 which "urges the Congress of the United States to designate the flower commonly known as the rose as the national flower of the United States."

"This resolution," said Mrs. Dexter Otis Arnold, president, and Mary M. Chittenden, director of legislation, "expresses the wishes of the General Federation of Women's Clubs."

The National Council of State Garden Clubs, a federation of 15,233 garden clubs throughout the country with a membership of 437,652, was represented by Mrs. Barbara A. Haynes of Chevy Chase, Maryland, who is a president of the National Capital Garden Club League.

Mrs. Haynes said, "The National Council is strongly in favor of the proposed legislation that would make the rose the national flower of our great nation. The National Council has indicated its deep interest in this matter as recently as last month (May) when delegates to the 35th annual convention in New York reaffirmed — by a unanimous vote — its previous endorsement of the rose."

The hearing heard seven witnesses who favored the rose. A total of 14 witnesses appeared before the subcommittee for the five candidates under consideration for the honors.

One of the organizations that testified, the Florist Telegraph Delivery Association, did not report in favor of any of the contenders, but presented the results of its National Flower Election, conducted late in 1959.

Truman Fossum, director of marketing research for FTD, stated that of 1,055,629 persons polled, the rose was in first place with 386,841 votes. It polled more than twice the votes of its nearest competitor, the carnation.

Garden Club's Educational Plan Is Novel

The Mount Pleasant Garden Club of Kingston has an interesting and novel educational project.

Instead of a workshop, time is given at each meeting to a demonstrator who instructs members on one certain design. She explains the design and the proper use of mechanics for it.

At the following meeting all members bring exhibits patterned after the design that has been explained the previous month. No member may win the prize two meetings in succession.

At the June meeting, Mrs. Harrison Wolfe demonstrated the Hogarth curve arrangement. In July members will bring this design.

What's more, if a member does not show up with an exhibit she must forfeit 25 cents which goes into the club treasury.

Circular Beds Are Definitely Out of Vogue

What does the garden editor think about circular flower beds set in the grass area of the front lawn?

She thinks it's an outmoded landscape practice. This was in vogue during the 80s and 90s of last century.

By 1900 the naturalistic garden was high style. Flower borders were gently curved. Trees and the circular flower bed (often cannas and red salvia) was decidedly on the decline.

If your wife wants you to dig up the front lawn and plant a circular bed of roses, tell her it's out of fashion as leg-of-mutton sleeves. Never mind mentioning that circular flower beds are hard to mow around. Just tell her she's not hep to landscape styles.

Yes, if you are living in the grand old mansion type of house, such a practice might be appropriate. In fact it might be intriguing.

COULD IT be a revival of an old landscape custom? It could be but it is not likely.

The patterned garden came back into vogue after the Williamsburg restoration. It just could happen that the circular flower bed would again be high fashion. But it's doubtful.

How about the mounded circular flower bed? There again we'd say, "No." In case of a small area and a yen for a strawberry patch, one of these pyramids encircled by aluminum provides space for quite a good number of strawberry plants. But make it a backyard project. Just for decoration as a front yard eye-catcher we'd give it a definite "No."

And of course there's the fifth freedom. That's reserved for gardeners and gives them the right to landscape their own property as they please.

The garden editor, for instance, has a cast iron urn encircled by a flower filled tractor tire. She would not give it up for love nor money. And no snooty landscape expert is going to talk her out of that tractor tire.

But you have the dog on a chain, a pit for burning rubbish and the clothes line in the backyard. And you still want roses! We'd say to border your driveway like Clarence Radcliffe has done at his Northridge Road home.

No, the circular flower bed is out of vogue. Let's keep it that way.

Roses Respond to 'Dustin' Given by Grandma Hoffman

The tug-of-war between organic and ordinary gardeners has long been a battle of considerable fury. The organic contingent believe in natural methods versus chemicals and the ordinary gardeners believe in dusting and spraying with poison insecticides and using chemical fertilizer whenever they deem it necessary.

The book, "Silent Spring" by the late Rachel Carson has dealt the chemical gardeners a heavy blow. In fact, it began to look as though they might have to concede the fight.

But recently on a visit to the Loring Hill garden in Kingston we learned about one sensible, old fashioned gardener who believes in "dustin" whenever it's necessary. And she has definitely scored some points for her side.

This gardener is Mrs. Olive Hoffman, mother of Mrs. Loring Hill. She has made her home with the Hills for a number of years — "Well long enough to help raise the six children, two of whom are through college and married," according to her calculations.

MRS. HOFFMAN loves the Hill garden and admires the successful results obtained by her son-in-law through his organic gardening practices. But she had long felt that with roses one needed different methods.

Her constant theme was "more dustin' and less manurin'." And talk as she would, her son-in-law paid no heed to her constant admonitions. That is until one day when he came in from the garden and announced: "Grandma, from now on the roses are yours."

Nobody could have been more surprised than Grandma Hoffman. But she gamely accepted the challenge.

She procured rose dust and set to work. The roses have been treated to an almost daily dusting and a long rest from barnyard manure. And at the present time they are giving an excellent performance.

Loring Hill admits, "Grandma's doin' fine with the roses." Mrs. Hoffman grins and says it's easy. She weeds them. Although there is not much weeding to do with all that cornob mulch that Loring already had on them.

SHE DUSTS almost daily. She cuts back the spent flowers to the fifth leaf. And that's it.

We asked Mrs. Hoffman if she planned to use chemical fertilizer later if and when the roses needed it.

She grinned and said that at present the roses were fine but she felt they would not be needing fertilizer for a good many years. But we had the feeling that Grandma Hoffman might be amenable to persuasion later on if Loring Hill is set against a chemical fertilizer.

After all, it's the roses she really cares about. Having scored her points she is not going to be stubborn about the matter.

GRANDMA HOFFMAN AND HER ROSES — Mrs. Olive Hoffman is just a plain type gardener who believes in "dustin" when things need dustin'. Her son-in-law, Loring Hill, Kingston, is an organic gardener. Magnificently successful with most other plants, his roses were a disappointment until Grandma Hoffman took over. They are now out of their doldrums and Loring Hill concedes that Grandma's care is better for the roses than his organic methods.

WEEKLY FOOD REVIEW

Fourth-of-July cookouts this weekend may carry a heavier-than-usual aroma of juicy sirloin and porterhouse steaks. Beef prices are still the top bargain at many food stores.

One national supermarket chain has marked down sirloin to 77 cents at its New York area outlets. Porterhouse is 87 cents a pound at the same meat counters.

Ground beef and roasts are major attractions as record supplies of beef continue.

At fruit and vegetable counters, most plentiful items include the traditional favorites for picnics and cookouts: watermelon and cantaloupe, lettuce and tomatoes, cucumbers and onions, squash and sweet corn.

However, processors of potato chips, frozen French fries and dehydrated potatoes continue to sell their products at about the same price as a year ago.

Garden Gossip

Mrs. Fred Minshall, Route 1, Kingston, has a seedless tomato. A volunteer plant, it came up in a geranium plant during the winter. The small tomatoes are not more than one and a half inches in diameter and have a delectable flavor.

Just for the fun of it, when the tomato plant started to bloom this spring in the house, Mrs. Minshall gave it a shot of Blossom Set. She harvested the first tomato on May 1. It was seedless.

Now the plant is outdoors and more tomatoes are coming. Thus far there have been five ripe tomatoes, all seedless.

Mrs. Minshall believes this plant to have come from some seeds of a big yellow tomato which she was saving.

Mrs. Fred Corcoran, Route 2, Williamsport, has planted lilacs of the valley under her pine trees. She says she remembered a relative who had thick plantings of valley lilacs under her pine trees. In the spring she used to pick the flowers and send them to a Cincinnati florist who sold them to his customers.

Gardeners have been telling Mr. Brehmer for several years that they wanted the chrysanthemum plants that they ordered earlier. He used to have them ready towards the last of June. This year he obliged. I know of at least two gardeners who have not planted their Brehmer chrysanthemums yet — and here it is two weeks or maybe three weeks later.

Mrs. John Mast on Route 188 sold her first sweet corn last Thursday June 25. Her first dozen ears went to Mrs. Ross Hamilton, Springhollow Road. But the family had sweet corn Saturday June 20.

The Masts were in Kentucky June 21 and Mrs. Mast declares her own Ohio vegetables are just as far along as Kentucky produce.

Hope Justice has relieved her grandfather, George Justice of Whisler, of the task of planting a cucumber patch. She has taken over the planting and cultivation entirely. Reports are that the pickle vines are doing splendidly, even if they have been planted thickly.

Pauline Schiff of near Lockbourne missed out on the fourth lesson of the course in modern advanced flower arranging given by Mrs. James Jackson of Ewington. She was back last Wednesday for the terminal lesson. We told her we missed her. She said she had been busy getting ready for a wedding. Her own! She is now Mrs. Bernard E. Savy.

We talked to Gail Wolfe at the Container Corporation last Friday. The plant has recently done some new landscaping and all they are waiting for now is for the grass to grow. There are sprinklers and such so we are giving the grass a month or six weeks.

Strong Organizations Back Rose as National Flower

Led by the support of two of the nation's leading women's organizations, the drive to make the rose the national flower of the United States was voiced with renewed determination earlier this month in Washington.

Backing the rose for national honors before the House Administration Subcommittee on Library and Memorials on June 5 were the General Federation of Women's Clubs and the National Council of State Garden Clubs.

The hearing — the first conducted on a national floral emblem in six years — also took testimony advocating the rose from Rep. In its statement to the subcommittee, the General Federation of Women's Clubs stated that, "The rose by its beauty has won a place in the hearts of the American people."

THE GROUP, which has a membership of 5½ million club women throughout the nation, reaffirmed its resolution of 1958 which "urges the Congress of the United States to designate the flower commonly known as the rose as the national flower of the United States."

"This resolution," said Mrs. Dexter Otis Arnold, president, and Mary M. Chittenden, director of legislation, "expresses the wishes of the General Federation of Women's Clubs."

The National Council of State Garden Clubs, a federation of 15,233 garden clubs throughout the country with a membership of 437,652, was represented by Mrs. Barbara A. Haynes of Chevy Chase, Maryland, who is a president of the National Capital Garden Club League.

Mrs. Haynes said, "The National Council is strongly in favor of the proposed legislation that would make the rose

The hearing heard seven witnesses who favored the rose. A total of 14 witnesses appeared before the subcommittee for the five candidates under consideration for the honors.

One of the organizations that testified, the Florist Telegraph Delivery Association, did not report in favor of any of the contenders, but presented the results of its National Flower Election, conducted late in 1959. Truman Fossum, director of marketing research for FTD, stated that of 1,055,629 persons polled, the rose was in first place with 386,841 votes. Roses Respond to 'Dustin' Given by Grandma Hoffman

The tug-of-war between organic and ordinary gardeners has long been a battle of considerable fury. The organic contingent believe in natural methods versus chemicals and the ordinary gardeners believe in dusting and spraying with poison insecticides and using chemical fertilizer whenever they deem it necessary.

The book, "Silent Spring" by the late Rachel Carson has dealt the chemical gardeners a heavy blow. In fact, it began to look as though they might have to concede the fight.

But recently on a visit to the Loring Hill garden in Kingston we learned about one sensible, old fashioned gardener who believes in "dustin" whenever it's necessary. And she has definitely scored some points for her side.

This gardener is Mrs. Olive Hoffman, mother of Mrs. Loring Hill. She has made her home with the Hills for a number of years — "Well long enough to help raise the six children, two of whom are through college and married," according to her calculations.

MRS. HOFFMAN loves the Hill garden and admires the successful results obtained by her son-in-law through his organic gardening practices. But she had long felt that with roses one needed different methods.

Her constant theme was "more dustin' and less manurin'." And talk as she would, her son-in-law paid no heed to her constant admonitions. That is until one day when he came in from the garden and announced: "Grandma, from now on the roses are yours."

Nobody could have been more surprised than Grandma Hoffman. But she gamely accepted the challenge.

She procured rose dust and set to work. The roses have been treated to an almost daily dusting and a long rest from barnyard manure. And at the present time they are giving an excellent performance.

Loring Hill admits, "Grandma's doin' fine with the roses." Mrs. Hoffman grins and says it's easy. She weeds them. Although there is not much weeding to do with all that corn cob mulch that Loring already had on them.

SHE DUSTS almost daily. She cuts back the spent flowers to the fifth leaf. And that's it.

We asked Mrs. Hoffman if she planned to use chemical fertilizer later if and when the roses needed it.

She grinned and said that at present the roses were fine but she felt they would not be needing fertilizer for a good many years. But we had the feeling that Grandma Hoffman might be amenable to persuasion later on if Loring Hill is set against a chemical fertilizer.

After all, it's the roses she really cares about. Having scored her points she is not going to be stubborn about the matter.

GRANDMA HOFFMAN AND HER ROSES — Mrs. Olive Hoffman is just a plain type gardener who believes in "dustin" when things need dustin'. Her son-in-law, Loring Hill, Kingston, is an organic gardener. Magnificently successful with most other plants, his roses were a disappointment until Grandma Hoffman took over. They are now out of their doldrums and Loring Hill concedes that Grandma's care is better for the roses than his organic methods.

If you like barbecued chicken, poultry prices should add to your appetite. Fryers are a top choice at many poultry counters.

The potato salad may prove more expensive in some areas. Potato costs are at an 8-year high.

However, processors of potato chips, frozen French fries and dehydrated potatoes continue to sell their products at about the same price as a year ago.

Koufax Duels Marichal for Mound Honors

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Sandy Koufax just can't shake Juan Marichal.

Or is it the other way around? Koufax had his greatest season in 1963, winning 25 games. And so did Marichal.

Now Koufax, with seven straight victories, has brought his victory total for this season to 11. And so has Marichal.

Marichal, the right-handed ace of the National League leading San Francisco Giants, got in a little earlier this time, becoming the majors' first 11-game winner in a 2-1 day game victory over Pittsburgh Wednesday.

Koufax, the left-handed ace of the eight-place Los Angeles Dodgers, followed suit in a 3-2 night game triumph over Philadelphia that dropped the second-place Phillies 1½ games behind the Giants.

Neither had an easy time of it. Marichal, 11-3 on the season with a 2.38 earned run average, was touched for eight hits. Koufax, 11-4 with a 1.84 ERA, allowed five, including a two-run homer by John Callison that provided the Phillies with an early lead.

Koufax, however, had the more impressive statistics, reaching still another plateau in strikeouts while continuing his winning streak against the Phillies, who have been unable to beat the Dodger dandy since Sept. 27, 1961.

Downing the Phillies for the eighth straight time, including last month's no-hitter, Koufax struck out 10 batters—the fifth time this season he has accomplished that feat and the 56th time in his career. No. 10 this time was West Covington.

No. 10 also was No. 1,600 of Koufax' career.

Besides Koufax and Marichal, two other pitchers who will be on the National League All-Star team—Chicago's Dick Ellsworth and Houston's Dick Farrell—went after victory No. 11. Neither got it.

Pete Rose's homer in the 10th inning made Ellsworth a loser as Cincinnati edged the Cubs 6-5. Farrell was tagged hard, but escaped without a defeat as the New York Mets pounded out 16 hits and whipped the Colts 8-6.

In the other NL game, Curt Simmons won his ninth game as St. Louis belted Milwaukee 6-1. Baltimore moved four games in the American League by defeating the Los Angeles Angels while second-place New York lost to Kansas City 5-4 in 11 innings. The Chicago White Sox nipped Washington twice, 8-7 and 2-1. Minnesota crushed Boston 14-3 and Detroit beat Cleveland 3-1.

Coach Solly Hemus of the Cleveland Indians began his career with Pocatello, Idaho in 1946.

ONE-BOWL COUNT — The count is one bowl here as Jack Bailey, three-year-old son of Ed Bailey, Milwaukee catcher, refused to go to bat in recent father-son game at the home of the Braves. Jack's brother Joe, 6, seems disinterested.

'Fireball' Roberts Dies in Hospital

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Race driver Glenn (Fireball) Roberts, burned badly in a May 24 race at Charlotte, died today.

A spokesman at Charlotte Memorial Hospital said Roberts died at 7:15 a.m. Cause of death was not announced.

Roberts had been a patient at the hospital since he was injured in a wreck at the May 24 race. He appeared for a time to be recovering from burns over 75 per cent of his body.

Tuesday, however, it was announced he had developed pneumonia and a possible blood infection. He was placed on the critical list Wednesday.

Boros Sets Cincy Mark on Errors

CINCINNATI (AP) — Steve Boros wanted to be a "cool, graceful third baseman" but changed into a scrambling, aggressive type this season and now holds a new Cincinnati Reds club record of 48 errorless games for the position.

The old Cincinnati record for errorless games at third base was 47 and was set by Heine Groh in 1920. The National League record of 57 is held by Bob Aspromonte of Houston. He set it in 1962.

Boros has not made a fielding error since he joined the club May 12. He has had 29 putouts and 78 assists for 107 total chances during the stretch. He is also batting in the .280s—better than ever before in the majors.

Blue Ribbon, Circleville Oil Tally Impressive LL Wins

The Blue Ribbon Dairy and Circleville Oil teams scored impressive wins yesterday in the Little League Minors Division.

The Dairymen downed Rotary, 30-4. The Oilers won by a 25-10 margin over Third National Bank.

Randy Sprout was the winning Blue Ribbon pitcher. He allowed only five hits and was backed by a 23-hit performance by his teammates.

Jackie Allen and Steve Thomas both collected five hits for the winners while Jimmy Neal had four. Thomas hit two home runs, a triple, a double and a single. Jeff Linn had a triple and a double while Bill Snook cracked a double.

FOR THE losers, Gary Robins had a homerun and a single, Earl Burke a triple and Ted Wolfe a double. Byron Weaver hurled for the winning Oilmen. He fanned 11 of the Third National batters and was touched for 13 hits.

His teammates provided a 20-hit attack, with Weaver coming up with five himself — including a trio of homeruns, a triple and a single.

Richard Sark was four-for-six at the plate with a homerun, a double and a pair of singles.

Danny DeLong was the losing pitcher. Dave Gillis was three-for-four for the losers, collecting a double and a pair of singles. James O'Brien also had three hits, including a triple.

The Blue Ribbon Dairy team has a 4-3 mark, the Circleville Oil team a 5-2 record, the Third National Bank 1-5 and Rotary 1-6.

Bunning, Pascual Tipped As All-Star Tilt Pitchers

NEW YORK (AP) — Perfect game pitcher Jim Bunning of the Philadelphia Phillies and 20-game winning candidate Camilo Pascual of the Minnesota Twins are the early choices to oppose each other in the major league All-Star game at Shea Stadium next Tuesday.

The two star right-handers were among the 17 pitchers selected by rival All-Star Managers Walter Alston of the Los Angeles Dodgers and Al Lopez of the Chicago White Sox. Alston picked seven pitchers, Lopez eight.

Alston selected four right-handers and three left-handers. The southpaws included Dodger Sandy Koufax, who has 11 victories including a no-hitter against Philadelphia; Dick Ellsworth, who has won 10 games for the Chicago Cubs and Chris Short of the Phillies, who owns a 6-4 record.

The right-handers, besides Bunning, include the Dodgers' Don Drysdale (10-7), Juan Marichal of the San Francisco Giants (11-3), and still another 10-game winner, Dick Farrell of the Houston Colts.

Lopez picked four right-handers and four left-handers. In addition to Pascual, an eight-game winner, other right-handers were Dean Chance of Los Angeles, Dick Radatz of Boston and John Wyatt of Kansas City. Radatz and Wyatt are bullpen specialists who own 11 victories and 28 saves between them.

Whitey Ford, dean of the New York Yankee pitching staff, headed the southpaws. The left-handed list included Jack Kralick of Cleveland and Gary Peters and Juan Pizarro of Lopez' Chicago White Sox.

Chicago White Sox. Ford has won his last 10 decisions after an opening day loss. Pizarro has won 10, Kralick eight and Peters seven.

Although Koufax and Ford rate among the most glamorous names in baseball, the starting choices are likely to be right-handers because of the preponderance of right-handed hitters in the starting line-ups of both squads.

Billy Williams of the Cubs is the only left-handed hitter among the NL starters, Tony Oliva of Minnesota is the only strictly southpaw swinger in the AL starting line-up. Mickey Mantle of the Yankees is a switch hitter.

Whitemarsh Open Course Is 'Easy'

WHITEMARSH, Pa. (AP)—If practice rounds were an indication of things to come, the touring golf pros headed by U.S. Open champ Ken Venturi, Masters winner Arnold Palmer and PGA king Jack Nicklaus are going to slaughter par in the $125,000 Whitemarsh Open Golf Tournament starting today.

To a man, the pros agreed that the sun-baked, 6,670-yard par 36-36—72 Whitemarsh Valley Country Club course played shorter and easier than ever. The rough posed no problem and the greens held firm was the consensus after Wednesday's pro-amateur fun-fest.

300 Putters Set For Tournament

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — More than 300 entrants from 30 states go into action Friday in the fifth annual championship tournament of the Professional Putters Association.

Included are 225 professionals who have paid entry fees of $50 each for a shot at the $5,000 top prize and a total purse of $30,000; 60 amateurs who have paid $5 each to try for an ornate four-foot trophy; and 25 women who go for a $2,000 purse with a No. 1 award of $500.

The men will play 72 holes Friday, Saturday and Sunday—a total of 216—and the low score for the route takes the $5,000 and the title won a year ago by John Spotts, Indianapolis college student.

Tebbetts Due To Rejoin Tribe Friday

DETROIT (AP)—Birdie Tebbetts, who seems to be getting healthier daily after suffering a heart attack, Friday rejoins the Cleveland Indians, who are suffering from a terrible case of "slumpitis."

The Tribe manager, who was stricken April 1 in spring training, got the doctors' okay Wednesday after tests in Cleveland Clinic.

Tebbetts indicated George Strickland, who was a coach for Tebbetts and has been acting manager during his illness, will work with him in the dugout.

"I plan to gradually ease myself into full responsibility," Tebbetts said. He did not indicate how long this might take.

Dr. W. L. Proudfoot, a heart specialist, said Tebbetts "has made an excellent recovery. I anticipate no difficulty, and I think he will be fine."

Gabe Paul, the Tribe's general manager, was elated over the doctors' reports.

"I am so happy about the diagnosis," he said. "Birdie must now condition himself just like a ball player, and he will not assume full duty until he's ready for this activity."

The Indians lost their fifth straight Wednesday night despite a fine performance by southpaw Tommy John. The Tigers' Hank Aguirre was too tough for the Indians, giving up only three hits for a 3-1 Detroit victory.

Britain Seeks Open Tennis

But Wimbledon Due To Stay Amateur

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) —The Wimbledon tennis tournament—where the girls take over the spotlight today—is going to stay amateur. And most of the star players here say they aren't sorry.

In fact, Chuck McKinley of San Antonio, Tex., beaten in his bid to retain his men's singles title, said he probably wouldn't even enter the tournament if it was open to the pros.

Britain will try again next week at the meeting of the International Lawn Tennis Federation at Vienna to get permission to run an open tournament—pros and amateurs in the same field.

But the move seems doomed to failure because both the United States and Australia have said they oppose it.

Two stars eliminated from the men's singles in Wednesday's semi-finals made it clear they agree with that stand. McKinley, beaten by Fred Stolle of Australia 4-6, 10-8, 9-7, 6-4, said Wimbledon is thriving as an amateur tournament and would gain nothing by admitting the pros.

Wilhelm Bungert of Germany, beaten 6-3, 15-13, 6-0 by top-seeded Roy Emerson of Australia, said he wouldn't come to Wimbledon if it was open.

Emerson, 28, who is making his 11th bid for the Wimbledon tournament, said "I'm happy with the tournament the way it is."

Billie Jean Moffitt, the American Wightman Cup star from Long Beach, Calif., was the only American hope left in the tournament. She faced top-seeded Margaret Smith, the defending champion, on the center court in a semifinal match.

Mario Bueno of the Brazil, winner here in 1959 and 1960, faced Lesley Turner of Australia in the other.

Nine golfers have won the USGA Open and British Open.

Cubs Hurler Sees 4-Run Edge Vanish

CINCINNATI (AP)—It will be a long time before Dick Ellsworth forgets Wednesday night—going into the bottom of the ninth inning with a 5-1 lead and then losing to the Cincinnati Reds, 6-5.

The Reds tied the game with four unearned runs and won it on Pete Rose's 10th inning home run into the right field bleachers.

In the Reds' half of the ninth, Andre Rodgers, who had replaced the rookie Jim Stewart at shortstop, let Steve Boros grounder through for an error. Rose singled to center one out later and Tommy Harper then grounded to Ellsworth, who threw the ball into center field trying to snuff out Rose at second.

Boros scored and Vada Pinson beat out a roller to first base, filling the bases. Frank Robinson flied out and Rose scored after the catch. Johnson tripled, two runs scored, and the game was tied.

Then, in the tenth, with two Reds out, Rose got his third hit of the game—the home run which won the game for Cincinnati.

The series continues tonight, with Ernie Broglio (3-7) expected to oppose Jim Maloney (6-8).

Group Seeks More Planning Details

A closer look at details involved in city master planning was the objective yesterday afternoon when a Circleville delegation traveled to Columbus for a conference with State Department of Development officials.

The local representatives were headed by Mayor Ben H. Gordon. They met with Ed Hurley of the Department of Development in the State Office Building.

Accompanying Mayor Gordon at the fact-finding session were Councilman Robert Hedges, Ludwig Haecker and William Cook of the City Planning and Zoning Commission and Paul Smallwood of The Herald.

Circleville again has revived efforts to obtain a workable master plan, with the Planning and Zoning Commission leading the way. However, an ordinance authorizing preparation of a comprehensive development program was tabled last week by Council.

THE IMMEDIATE lack of money for such a program was considered the main reason for "no action" on the proposed ordinance. Candeb, Fleissig & Associates, professional planning consultants, have offered to prepare a comprehensive plan for the city at a cost of $28,500. Circleville's actual share would be $9,800, providing federal assistance could be obtained.

The professional planners have offered to complete a plan for Circleville over a 12-month period. One of the important points discussed yesterday, and recommended by Hurley, was to extend the preparation time to two years. This, it was contended, could produce a more complete and workable plan.

It was indicated the two-year program might mean a moderate increase in cost, but that such a procedure could well be worth the additional money.

Candeb, Fleissig was described as a competent firm by the Department of Development spokesman. The firm

3 Crewmen Are Killed in Rail Crash

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Three crew members were killed and another trainmen was injured early today when a Pennsylvania Railroad freight train rammed the rear of a halted freight in the city's west end.

The three dead men were trapped in the cap of the second train's engine.

A railroad spokesman said R. J. Cook of Carnegie, Pa., the fireman was freed from the wreckage about three hours after the crash but was dead on arrival at a hospital.

C. M. Blundo of Columbus, Ohio, the engineer, and E. A. Smith of Newark, Ohio, a brakeman, were pronounced dead in the wreckage about 4½ hours after the collision, the spokesman said.

Theodore H. Nally, 40, of Steubenville, Ohio, conductor on the halted train, was reported in good condition at a hospital. Six other men escaped injury.

The caboose and six box cars of the halted train were derailed and one of the box cars landed on top of the derailed engine of the second train.

The spokesman said C. G. Gray of East Liverpool, Ohio, a flagman, was in the caboose of the second train and heard the other train approaching.

The spokesman quoted Gray as saying he jumped from the caboose and began flagging down the train and heard the engineer apply the emergency brakes but it was too late.

Gray helped Nally get out through a cock loft window in the caboose after the crash, the spokesman said.

The halted train consisting of 56 cars was en route from Mingo Junction, Ohio, to Conway, Pa. and the other train made up of 39 cars was en route from Columbus, Ohio, to nearby Pitcairn.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market continued to advance early this afternoon in what some Wall Streeters were beginning to call a summer rally.

The move wasn't as exuberant as that of Wednesday when the market surged ahead in heavy volume. Trading was moderate.

However, Wall Street expected some caution on the part of traders today because of the long Fourth of July holiday weekend.

Steels took the lead again at the opening but slipped around midday. Gains by U.S. Steel and Bethlehem evaporated and turned into fractional losses.

Motors, rubbers, electronics, utilities and drugs advanced.

The Associated Press 60-stock average at noon was ahead 7 at 315.6 with industrials up 1.5, rails up .6 and utilities off .3.

At noon the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 2.15 to 840.21.

GOING DOWN — This excavation, about 30 feet deep, will house the concrete floor of a new sewage plant being built south of here to serve residential and commercial facilities planned by the Wacker and Miller Development Companies. Plans call for the plant to consist of an aerobic digester with an initial capacity of 30,000 gallons, along with a main trunk line to serve the project areas. The Miller firm, a subsidiary of South-Central Rural Electric, plans a housing project east of Route 23. The Wacker Co. has announced plans for a new Quality Courts Motel on the west side of the highway.

GOING UP — This huge structure will support the new elevated water storage tank being erected south of Circleville by the Consumers Water Co. The 100,000 gallon tank will serve housing and commercial facilities planned by the Miller and Wacker Development Companies along Route 23. The tower, stretching skyward to about 150 feet, is part of a new water plant that will include pumping and iron removal equipment. The elevated tank is scheduled to be assembled on the supports pictured here within the next few days.

EDITORS NOTE — Television westerns, eternally popular, are also eternally the favorite targets of the "sex and violence critics. By ROBERT FULLER
For Vacationing Cynthia Lowry Dear Bob,

You've got a shotgun, a .30-.30 rifle, a .22 rifle, a rod and reel, two complete cowboy outfits from hat to spurs, a quail call, a duck call, and a pair of boxing gloves. These are presents from some of your older friends. They want to make sure your life is full of hunting and fishing and riding. I do, too. Someday you might want to make your living by acting, but still get in plenty of the outdoor life. In that case, here's some advice for you. I'm giving it to you now, when you're still too young to argue.

Son, don't hang around actors. You'll find yourself acting all day and talking about it all night. That makes for dull talk and a dull life.

If you can, start your career in Westerns. Then do everything you can to stay in Westerns. There's a good reason for this: You'll have more fun.

You'll be working with stuntmen, and wranglers, and the fellows who spring into action when the sheriff calls for a posse. Salty, down-to-earth guys who think the method has something to do with the right way to get on a horse. These fellows get around to the best places; they know where the quail are hiding and the fish are biting. If you don't act like an actor, they might take you along. Deserts, forests, mountains will work on you, helping prevent such afflictions as swollen ego and the shortsightedness that mistake a stage for the world.

And son, if you're an actor, remember who you're working for. Not the front office, or the critics, or other actors, or your "art." Above all, not that vague public.

You're working for the individual human being — the mechanic in Wichita, the farm woman in Georgia, the kid in Tallahassee or Tokyo who plunks down money at the box office or twirls the TV dial to see a good show.

They're not only your real bosses, they're your best friends. Treat them that way. If they want you to stand in the hot sun all afternoon shaking hands and signing autographs, you do it — and be grateful. If I ever hear of you mumbling about "invasion of privacy" or refusing to sign an autograph, I'll come down out of the mountains, or out of the Old Actor's Home, and whale the tar out of you. For your own good, you understand.

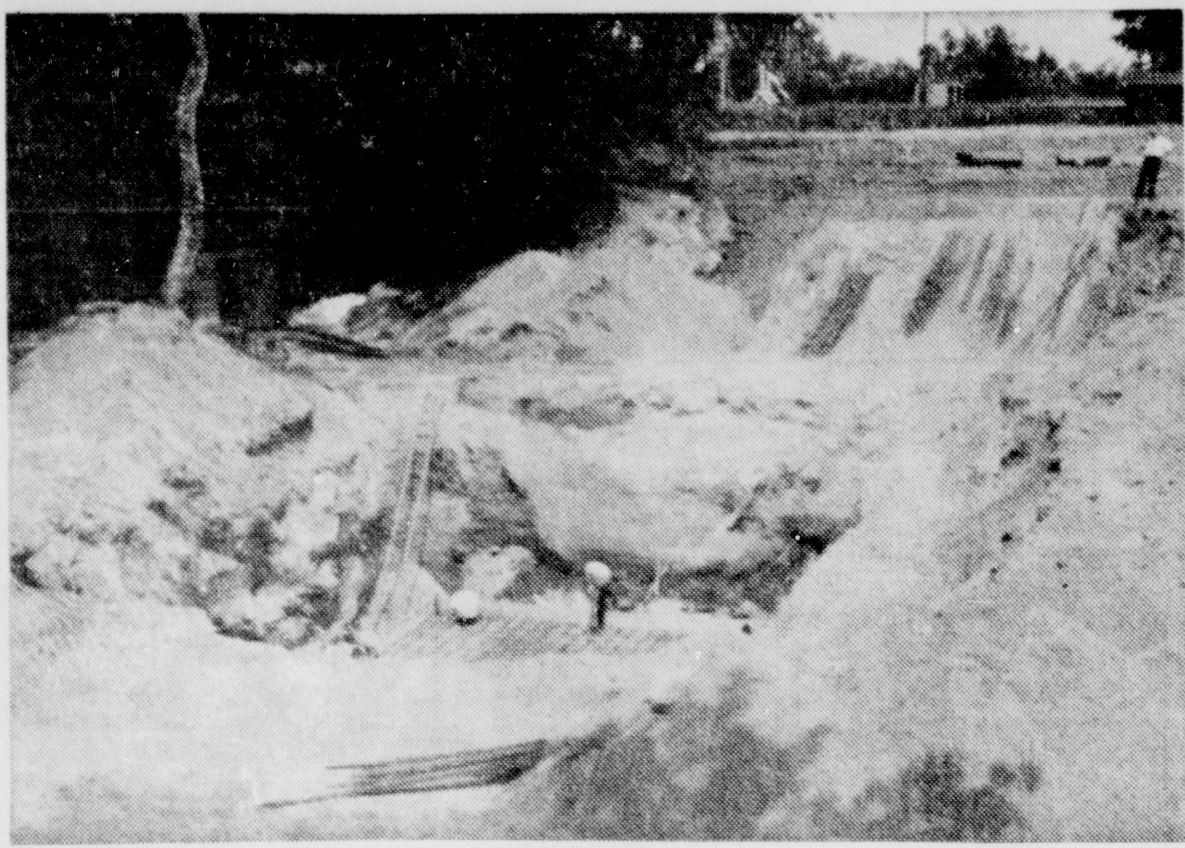

Now, I realize all this advice may be a little premature. After all, you're only nine weeks old.

Maybe the person I'm really sounding off to is me.
